The Thread Of Our Lives

We live in a troubled age. Through its efforts and the use of its brain-power, the human race has made fantastic advances in science and technology that eclipse those of any era in history. These accomplishments have not alleviated the problems; if anything, they have only served to create new ones that further harass us.

The scientific progress of our age may be compared to a brush fire which has caught the landowner unprepared. While man has utilized his brain and skill to better his living conditions, he has not necessarily used his inherent wisdom and common sense.

From the general reaction to the power and freedom these material advances have brought, it may be concluded that many are not sufficiently matured to accept the responsibilities that come with power and freedom.

All over the world we see the pattern of power seeking to subjugate freedom and to gradually eliminate it. With the power man has unlocked and often unleashed upon his fellows through greed and lust and intolerance, the human race has the ability to do a great deal of good or to destroy itself with the seeds of destruction it has already sown.

We are students; we have the opportunity to learn and heed wise counsel. As the future members of this complex society we must be ready; our teachers have helped develop our personality and character. The adults of today are responsible for the strength and texture of the thread of our lives, but we will be responsible for the pattern of our lives in society.

This, then, is the thread of our lives: faith, courage, discipline, and work. Our success in life will depend upon what we have done and the effort we have exerted during our school years to prepare ourselves to live the useful Christian life which our Maker demands of us all.

Administration

Superintendent Gerard Tardif briefs the duly elected members of the Junior Town Government Day School Committee: Phil Theriault, Bob Theriault (Chairman), Alphy Durette, and Bill Paradis (Superintendent).

The education of youth is the right, and responsibility, of parents. For life is passed on like a continuous thread. Not only the life of the body, but also the life of the mind and spirit . . . it goes on through the ages, from parents to sons and daughters.

Out of necessity parents entrust the "spinning" of this thread to special artisans: the School Board, the Superintendent and the teachers.

The Superintendent, under the direction of the school committee, guides the teachers of the two high schools in the important task of fashioning the fibers of knowledge, discipline and character into the thread of our lives.

Faculty Boys' High School

Rev. Robert Labrecque, S.M., B.A., B.S.

Boys' High's new principal handles some of the daily office chores such as the phone calls, ever-present salesmen, and delinquent students. Father Labrecque has made very good use of his leisure moments in remodeling and finishing the offices and teachers' room.

Rev. Euloge Laplante, S.M., B.A., M.A.

Father fills in his day with Physical Science, Biology, Physics, General Science and advising his freshmen. His varied interests include nature, people, and the grooming of pupils for science fairs. He leaves much behind, including the shop building which he designed and built himself.

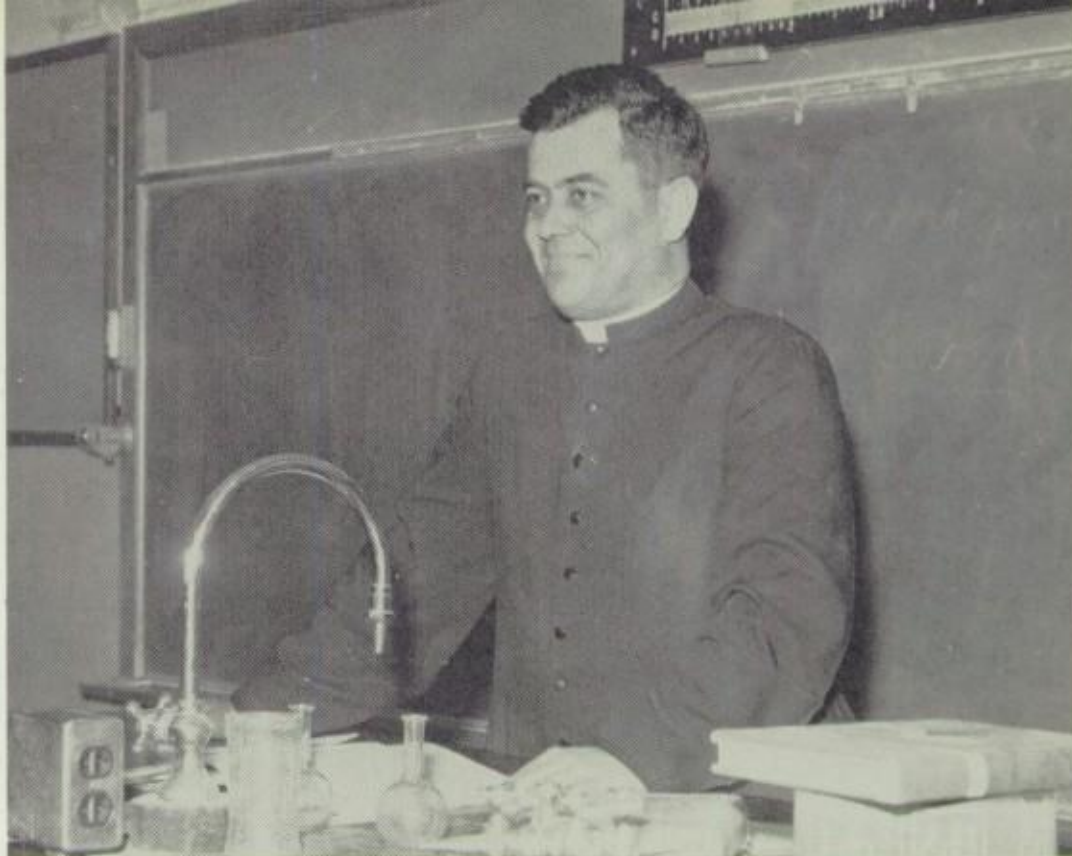

Rev. Robert McDonald, S.M., B.A., M.Ed.

As Gateway advisor and photographer, this member of the Boys' High faculty is rarely caught on the business side of the lens. Father McDonald spends his working hours as a professor of Senior Math, General Math, Business Math, Junior Business, Senior Review Algebra, and Trigonometry.

Gerald Levasseur, A.B.

When the lights burn late at Boys' High, it is very often Mr. Levasseur doing his Guidance homework or preparing his P.O.E., P.O.D., and Sociology classes for the next round. He very ably directed the Junior Town Government Day activity and officiated as monitor for the National Honor Society.

Rev. Roger Lachance, S.M., B.A., M.A.

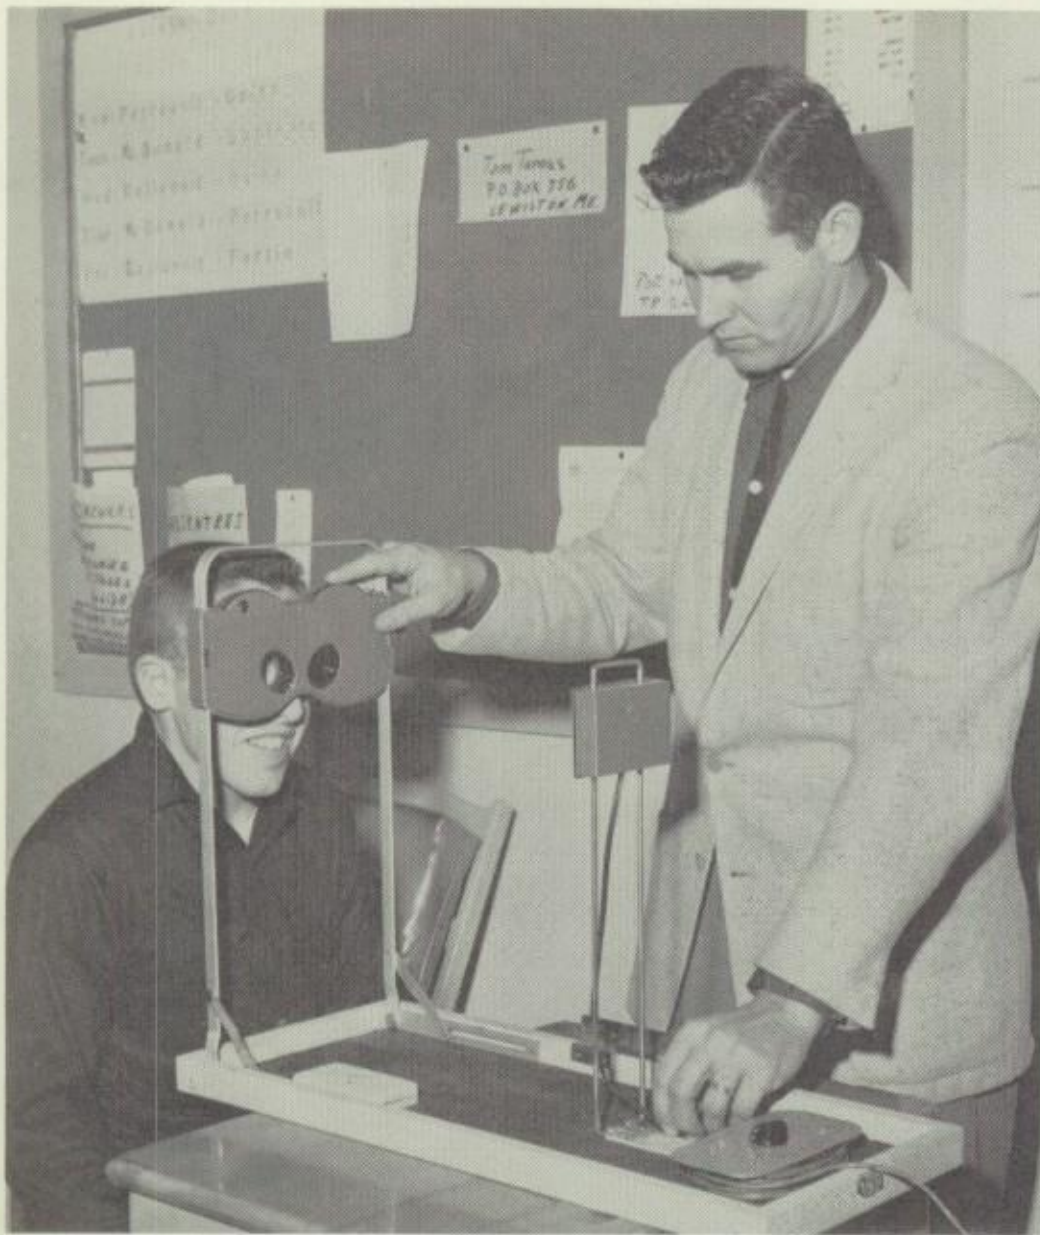

The Senior advisor administers the testing program, teaches Algebra, Geometry, General Math, and General Science. Father swings a very heavy golf club; he loves the sport which he polished up in Detroit, where he was Athletic Director of Notre Dame High for many years.

Rev. Maurice Bellenoit, S.M., B.A.

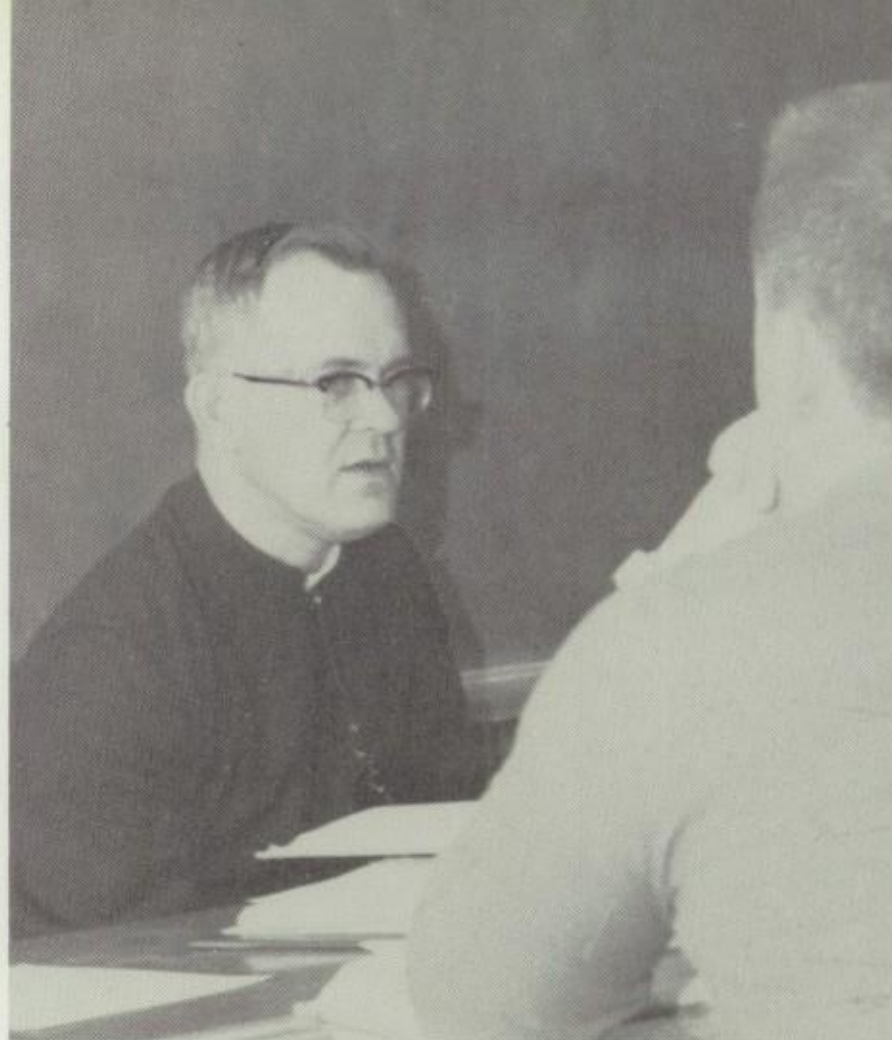

This is indeed a busy man! By chance the photo-man caught him correcting the usual load of Freshman and Sophomore English papers. Father Bellenoit is usually putting out the "Chips" and "Conquest," producing a minstrel, organizing a record hop, advising the Juniors, throwing the shot-put with the track squad, or coaching speech contestants.

Richard Cormier, B.A.

This is the man responsible for the general health of the student body. His fields run the gamut of Health, Physical Education, Junior Varsity Basketball, and Baseball. His coaching ability gave Van Buren another N.A.L. Baseball trophy this year.

Rev. Andrew Fortin, S.M., A.B., M.A.

Father Fortin, professor of Junior and Senior English, initiated the Remedial Reading Workshop. He not only helped to plan and produce the first "Conquest," he also coached his pupils to notable victories in the local, county, and state contests.

James William Quinn, B.S.

In the classroom, Mr. Quinn trains future clerical workers in the sciences of typing and bookkeeping. After hours he was the man who drilled the varsity basketball team into co-champions of the Northern Aroostook League.

Rene Gagnon, B.S.

Mr. Gagnon is the backbone of the Industrial Arts department at Boys' High. Always seeking to improve his own techniques, he turns out young men who are skilled and competent craftsmen.

Part-time secretary, Mrs. "Pat" Dumont, makes out report cards.

Roland Perreault, B.A.

Professor of French 11 and 21, Mr. Perreault guards the treasure-house of books—the library, as well as teaching Latin to freshmen and sophomores. His charming wife occasionally joins the faculty as a part-time teacher.

Gerald Croteau, B.A.

Mr. Croteau switches P.O.E. and P.O.D. courses with Mr. Levasseur at the end of the first semester, an innovation for Boys' High. He also provides a thorough background in United States History and World History. Monitor for the school lunch, Mr. Croteau handled the job throughout the school year.

Sister St. Helen Marie, S.C.I.M., M.A.

This is one busy moment in the Principal's busy day. Sister St. Helen Marie briefs her efficient secretary, Mrs. Eugene Plourde, on the day's work, while waiting for a phone call to come through. Sister Principal is also Moderator of the Sodality and Guidance Director.

Sacred Heart High Faculty

Sister Mary Leah, S.C.I.M.

As Superior, Sister Mary Leah takes a genuine interest in the teachers and students. She's always there to encourage their efforts and rejoice in their success.

Miss Walline Nadeau, B.A.

Each school day, Miss Nadeau opens the door to a full schedule—English and World History classes, meetings with the Potato Chips staff, rehearsals for one-act plays, and speaking contests. But whether she is greeting the new day or closing the door on a well-spent one, she has a ready smile for all.

Sister St. Anne du Sauveur, S.C.I.M., B.A.

Sister St. Anne du Sauveur teaches the skills and attitudes necessary for the homemaker of tomorrow. A dedicated and enthusiastic teacher herself, it is therefore not surprising to see her as moderator of the F.T.A.

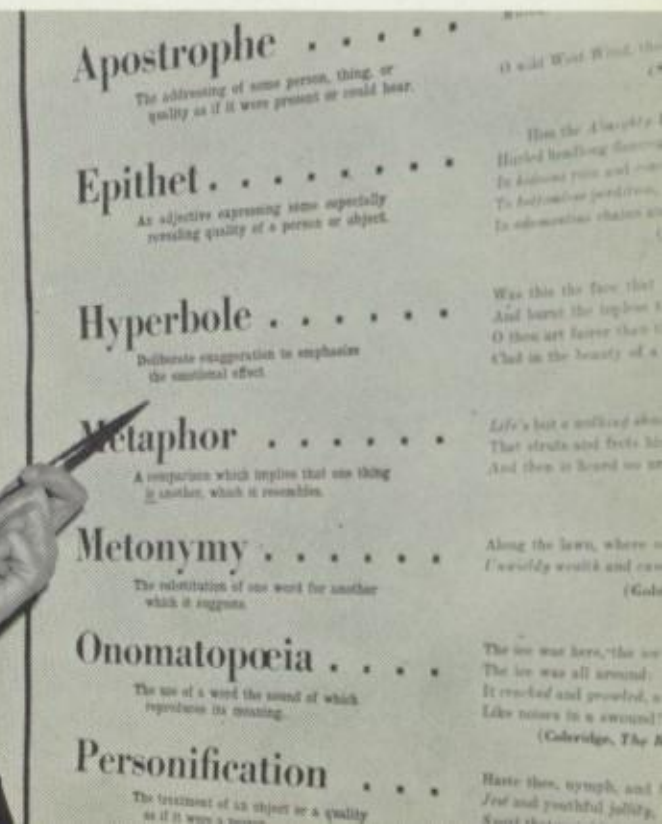

Mrs. Jane Waltz, B.S.

"Sew straight! Sew efficiently!" advises this teacher who is so professional and so nice. Mrs. Jane Waltz directs the Home Economics Clothing Department and imparts practical knowledge to every girl.

Sister Marie Annunciata, S.C.I.M., B.A.

Thirty-eight lively Seniors have kept Sister Marie Annunciata on her toes throughout the year. Besides her two Senior English classes, she teaches a Junior and a Sophomore French and directs the Glee Club.

Mr. Paul E. Parent, B.A.

Tid bits of Government, American History, and Geography are cleverly inserted in Mr. Parent's coffee break discussions, usually with an unorthodox twist. As assistant librarian he readily absorbs all that's new in printed material.

Miss Sarah Mae Stuart

"There's music in the air" whenever Miss Sarah Mae Stuart is around. As director of the School Band and accompanist for the Glee Club, she certainly keeps things humming.

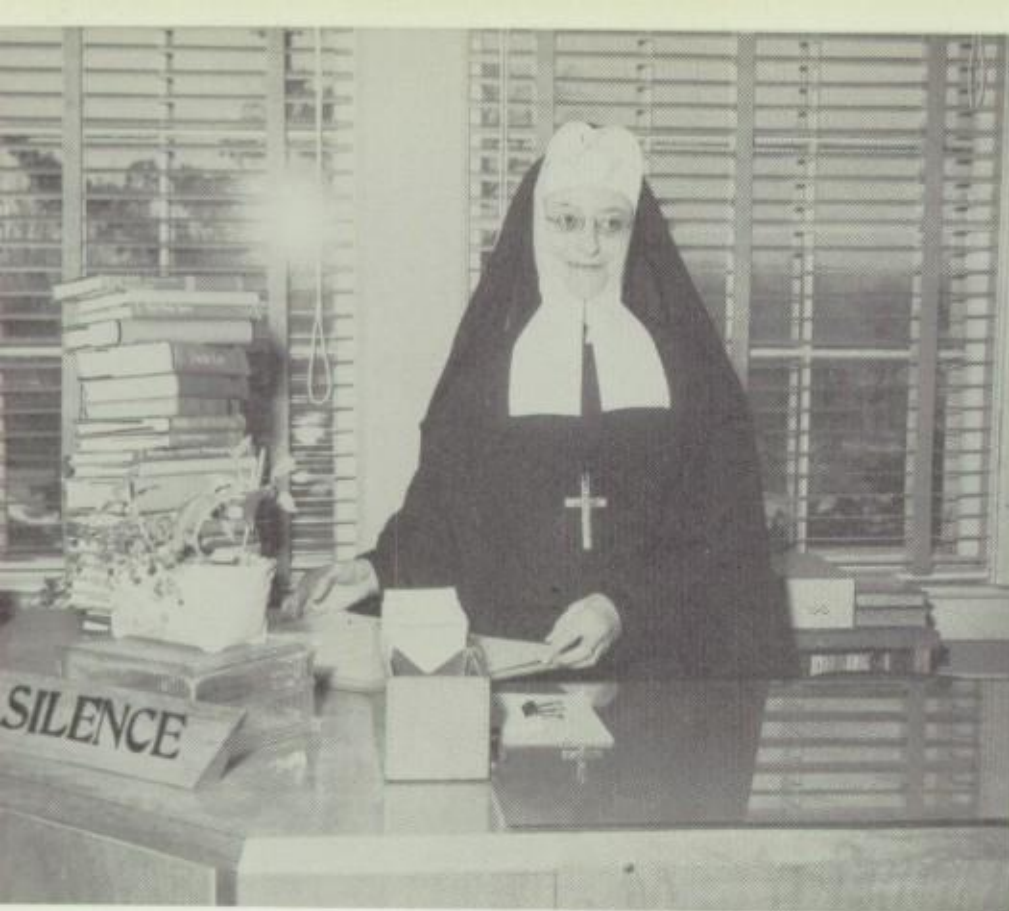

Sister Mary Bernardine, S.C.I.M., B.A.

Sister Mary Bernardine is Science personified. Her classes of General Science, Biology, and Chemistry provide her with the opportunity to share her interests. She is also Assistant Moderator of the Yearbook and of the Sodality.

Sister Marie-Emile, S.C.I.M., B.A.

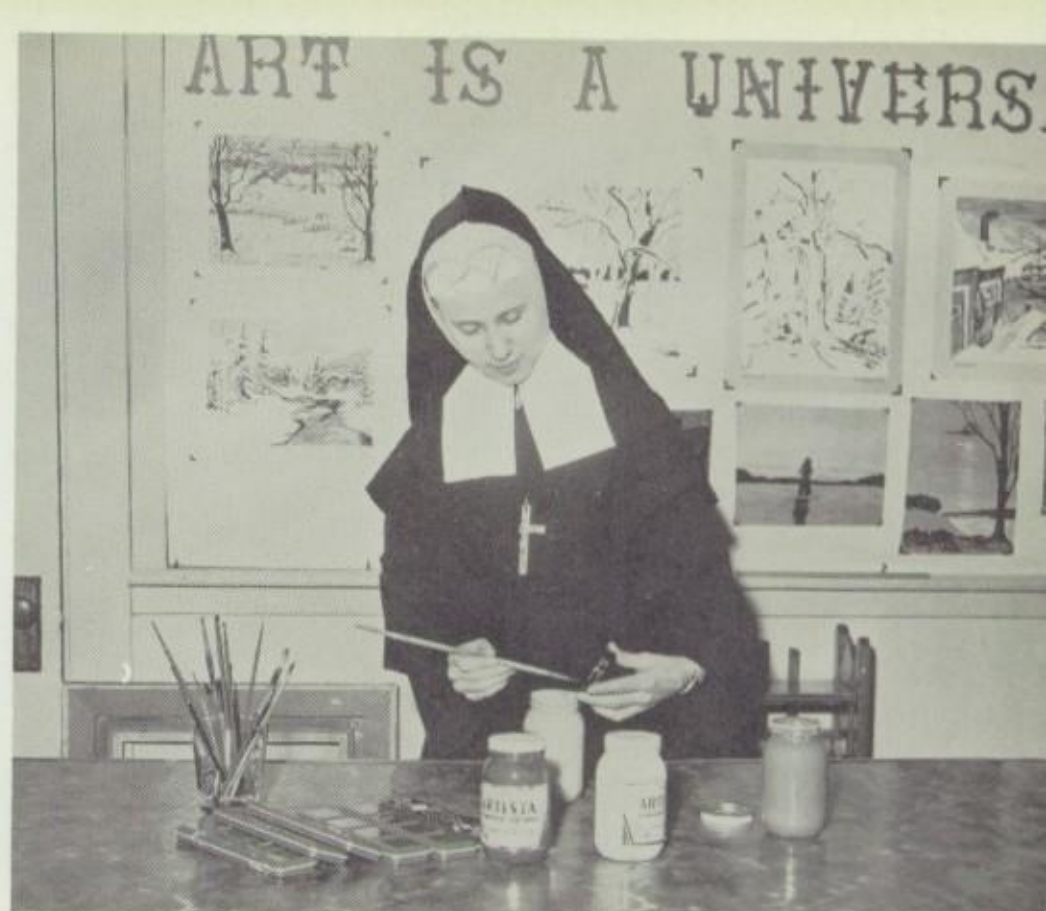

Teachers of languages are kept busy . . . such is the case of Sister Marie-Emile, who specializes in French, "la langue de nos aieux."

Sister St. Irene, S.C.I.M., B.A.

Although a pile of books to be checked in spells extra work for the librarian, it equally means a well-frequented library. Our smiling librarian, Sister St. Irene, heads the Business Department, teaching Shorthand, Bookkeeping, Type, and General Business.

Sister St. Fremont, S.C.I.M., B.A.

When Sister St. Fremont isn't teaching English, French, World History, or Type I, she's working on the Yearbook or is engaged in artistic pursuits. She's a "Jack-of-all-Trades" and master of all.

Sister St. Remi of Rheims, S.C.I.M., B.A.

Sister St. Remi of Rheims and Latin are just naturally associated. Here Sister reaches for a trusty stand-by, the dictionary, and all know the lesson will be thorough! Sister's teaching program includes English III, Reading Lab, and Type, as well as Latin.

Miss Rachel Cyr, B.A.

Miss Rachel Cyr settles for a relaxing homebound ride. And well she deserves it, for she has just spent the school day initiating students to the intricacies of algebraic, geometric, and general math problems.

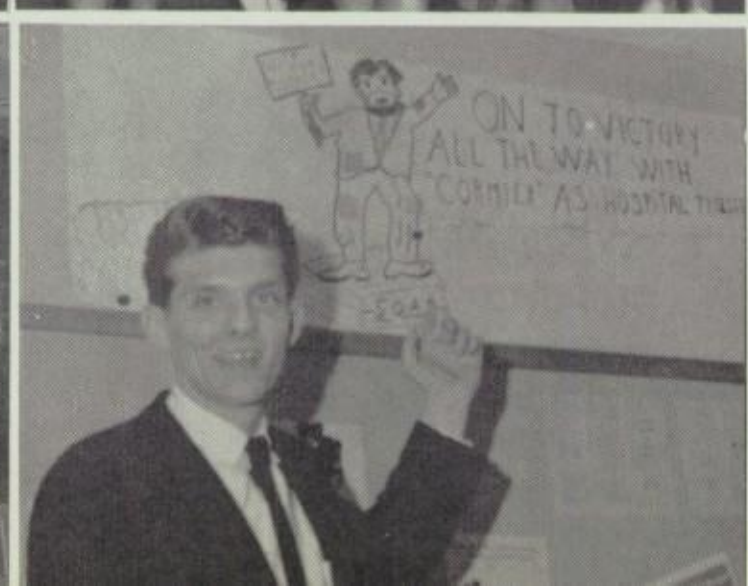

To complement the study of theory and the learning of facts and figures, schools offer a variety of extracurricular activities designed to get us out of ourselves in order to fulfill the very basic need for the companionship and acceptance of others.

A sound sports program brings to the athlete a sound body and a sound mind with a spirit of fair play and self-discipline; it makes him a better individual.

Self-confidence is fostered when we stand before an audience and speak our piece in a play, dramatic presentation, or take part in Junior Town Government Day. Dances, parties and get-togethers require a great deal of courage and confidence; witness the freshman at his first dance, or the shy person as he or she meets new people for the first time.

Each man is but a strand by himself; there are many citizens of this world. This phase of school life adds to the lustre of the thread of our lives as we learn to live with others, fashioning the fabric of the future.

The Van Buren School Band under the direction of Sarah Mae Stewart, proudly demonstrates their ability to play old favorites as they perform for their parents and friends at a school concert.

Peter Smith serenades a captivated audience with his interpretation of "Wonderland by Night" at a school concert.

Music

Sarah Mae Stewart, the music instructor, proudly directs her pride and joy—the Van Buren School Band. This band consists of students from Boys' High and Girls' High schools. Father Bellenoit and his trusty saxophone filled in for the night.

Sacred Heart High School Choir fills the air with the "Sound of Music." These girls charm their audience at a spring concert under the directorship of Miss Stewart and Sister Annunciata.

The Minstrel

"This bow tie doesn't seem to fit right" moans P. Ezzy as he and J. Tozier hastily don their endmen costumes.

"He's Got the Whole World in His Hands." Van Buren Boys' High 1961 Minstrel Choir entertains their audience with a selection of old favorites under the direction of Rev. M. Bellenoit.

Endmen, L. Doucette, W. Paradis, M. Poirier, J. Tozier, P. Ezzy and B. Theriault belt out their verse of "Jubilation T. Cornpone."

J. Charette, with his pantomiming of the fair Miss Nightingale, Beatrice Kay, adds his own special touch of gaiety to the show.

"Rock-a-bye Your Baby" is the advice endman, J. Tozier, gives to anyone who is in doubt.

Sister Annunciata lights the candle of scholarship during the induction ceremony of Sacred Heart High's National Honor Society. J. Labbe, J. Lebel, R. Lapierre, A. Levesque, P. Fournier, F. Madore, A. M. Blier, and R. Daigle make up this happy chapter.

(Middle picture) FRONT: V. Berube, M. Poirier, Gerald Levasseur (Moderator), N. Michaud, and R. Thibodeau. BACK: R. Dionne, R. J. St. Pierre, R. Gagnon, P. Theriault, D. St. Jean, and L. Violette. Old members initiated the new in a special ceremony of the Crusader Chapter of the National Honor Society on May 22.

"Around the World in 80 Days" or is it 80 seconds? G. Theriault, C. Ouellette, B. Smith, and M. Laplante bring into focus costumes of different countries during National Foreign Language Week.

"It's time to do the spring cleaning." These Sodality officers C. Bouchard Vice-Prefect; M. Laplante, Treasurer; J. Lebel, Prefect; and A. Levesque, Secretary, in addition to their regular duties, willingly offer to clean the grounds surrounding Our Lady's statue.

"Oh, no, I won't," protests F. Madore when C. Pelletier and K. Gagnon attempt to arrange a blind date in a scene from the school play "Accent on Revenge."

Commissioner Warren G. Hill awards medals to deserving students at the Second Annual Honor Banquet sponsored by the Rotarians. Rev. Euloge Laplante, a departing faculty member, was honored and presented with a gift.

Adding a spiritual element to their lives, Father Bellenoit, the Junior advisor, solemnly blesses the Juniors' class rings.

"Into a world of wonder and beauty." Future scientists W. Humphrey and C. Bouchard exhibit a skeleton of a cat they killed and skinned. M. Laplante, who is not quite so daring, is satisfied with collecting shells, shells, shells. N. Cyr, not pictured, took first place in Aroostook with her study of the eye.

"Speeches of Tomorrow" (FRONT) J. Labbe, E. Levasseur, M. St. Pierre and C. Theriault (NOT PICTURED). (BACK) J. Tozier, N. Michaud, L. Doucette and R. Dionne proudly represented their schools in the St. John Valley Speech Festival. E. Levasseur took first place in the county and L. Doucette came out second in the state eliminations.

"Oh, no, not another one!" D. Pelletier, R. J. St. Pierre, and J. Charette track a shot which helped ACI to bomb Van Buren's tournament hopes.

Coach Quinn, the man who took Van Buren to the top in the NAL, knew his men could do it. Coach gets his due from Gerald Bourgojn, who now knows it also.

"Call it ref, we can't all jump for it!", cries Larry Violette as he tries to get that extra finger into the pie during the fatal (75-50) ACI melee.

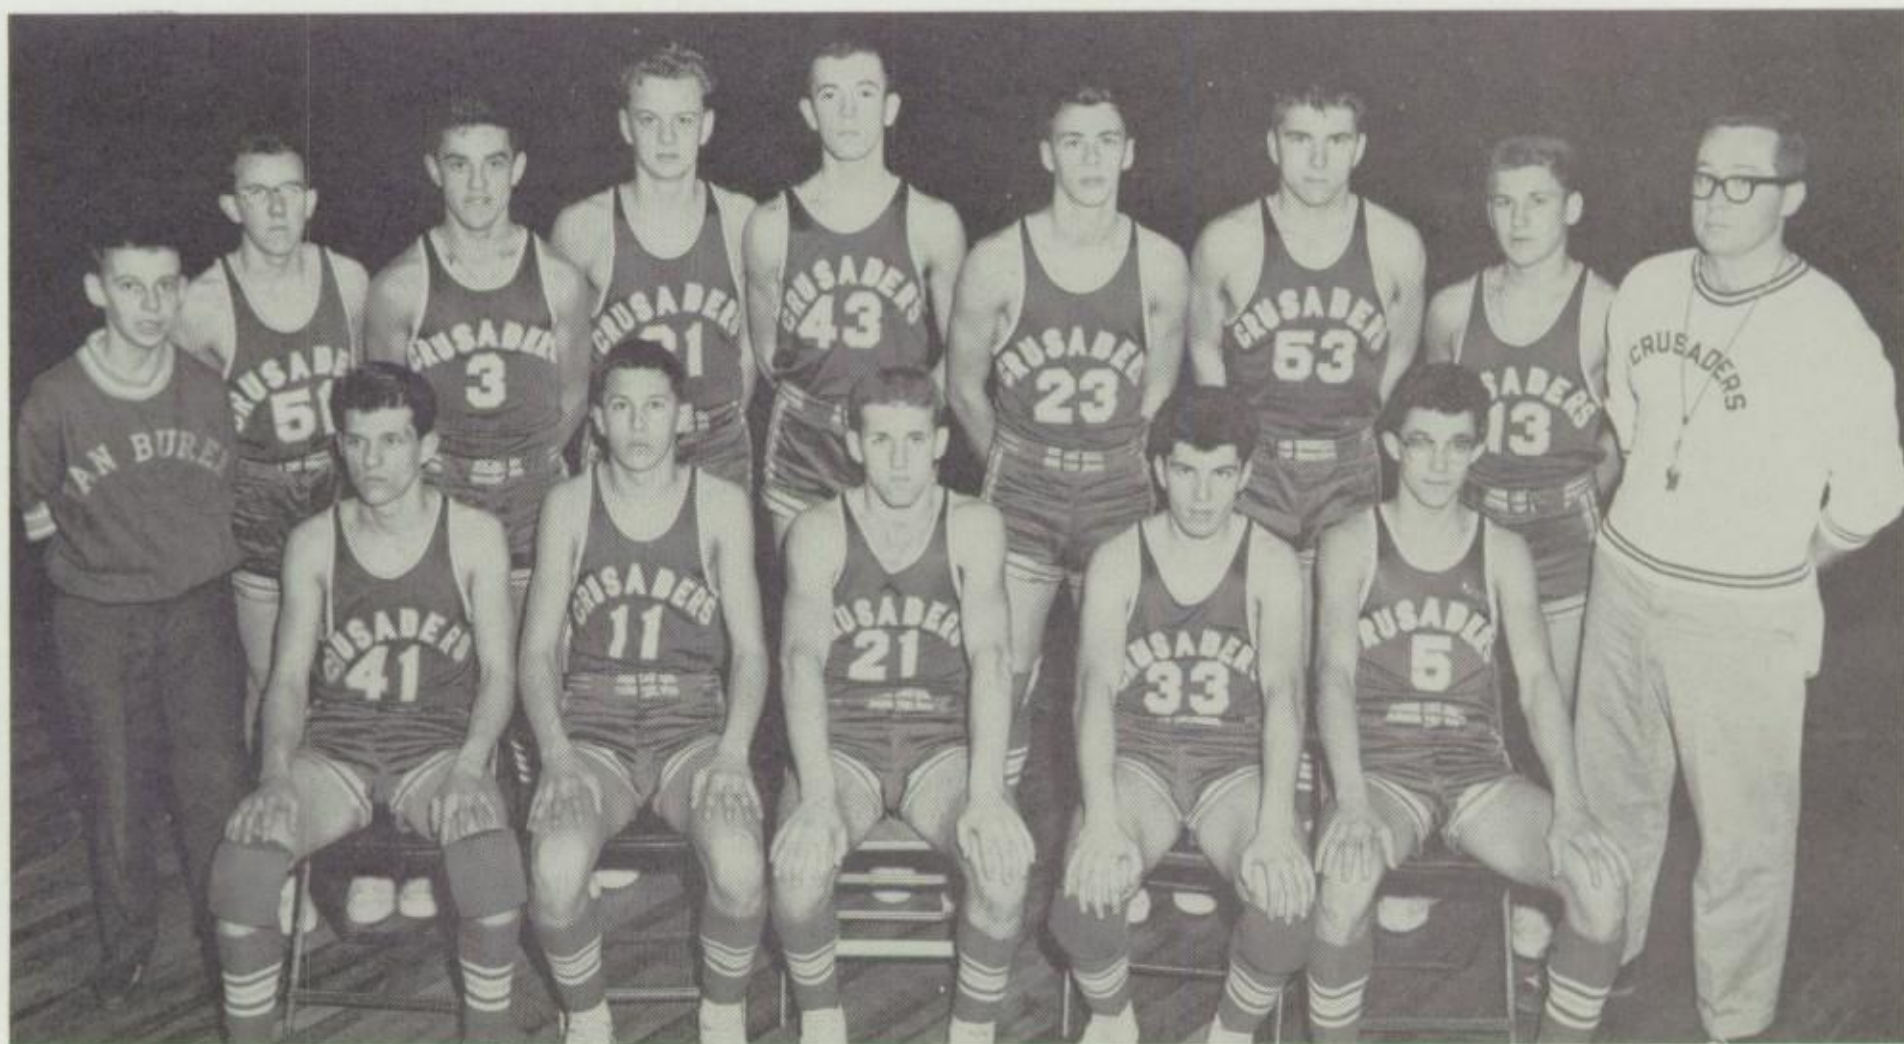

"I'm bringing it up, don't worry!" L. J. Cormier trots up-court on his four legs.

J. Bossie (31) screens R. E. St. Pierre, the jump shot man. The Crusaders coasted by Mapleton in both games with 20-point spreads.

"How we put the 'Mad' in Madawaska!" R. Dionne and the fans unleash a mighty roar for the mighty Crusaders as they take their first "Mad-town" game in years. Score? 90-87!

Curriculum

Whenever the education of young men and women has become more thorough, their opportunities for advancement and their potential have increased correspondingly. With all its break-throughs in science, medicine, and building, the world is what it is today because each of us is always seeking to know more about Nature; more about man himself and his relation to the things around him.

True education is not only concerned with facts and figures. It is not enough merely to know things; it is necessary to understand the theory behind the data. Education lends insight to the mind; it allows us to see truth and it gives direction to our lives, much as warp yarn gives strength and direction to fabric.

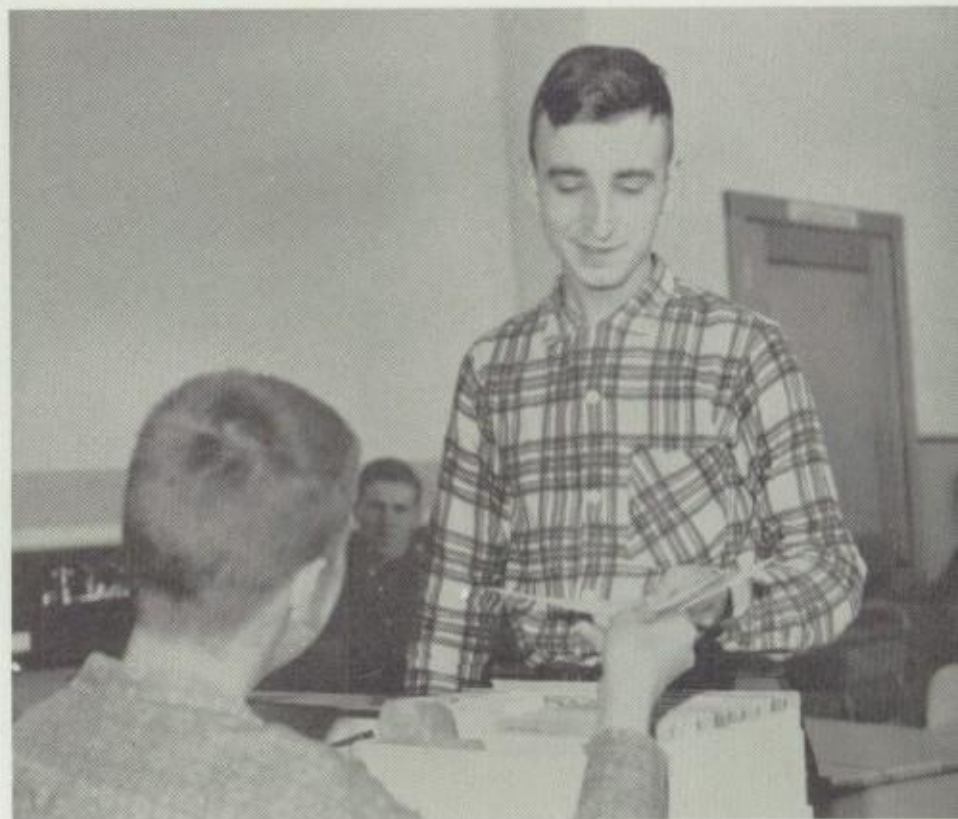

Formal learning and practical experience are the main fibers required to secure a good job and to maintain a comfortable living standard in this day and age. The insight acquired from our search for knowledge will pay dividends in the life we soon enter. This insight will, we hope, make us aware of the greatness God has created; what we can do with the faith we possess.

Boys' High English

"Oh, my gosh," exclaims R. Ayotte to a nonchalant R. Ouellette after they see their English marks.

Roland Grivois, looking pleased, accepts his assignment from Roger Voisine who presides over the material in "Remedial Workshop."

Sophomore E. Picard and S. Schell go through their parts in a T.V. play for Fr. Bellenoit who explains the action to the class.

"This man dies of thirst and you stand there!" cries R. Gatcomb. The three, N. Grivois, G. Gatcomb, and R. Tardif are running through a play in Sophomore English.

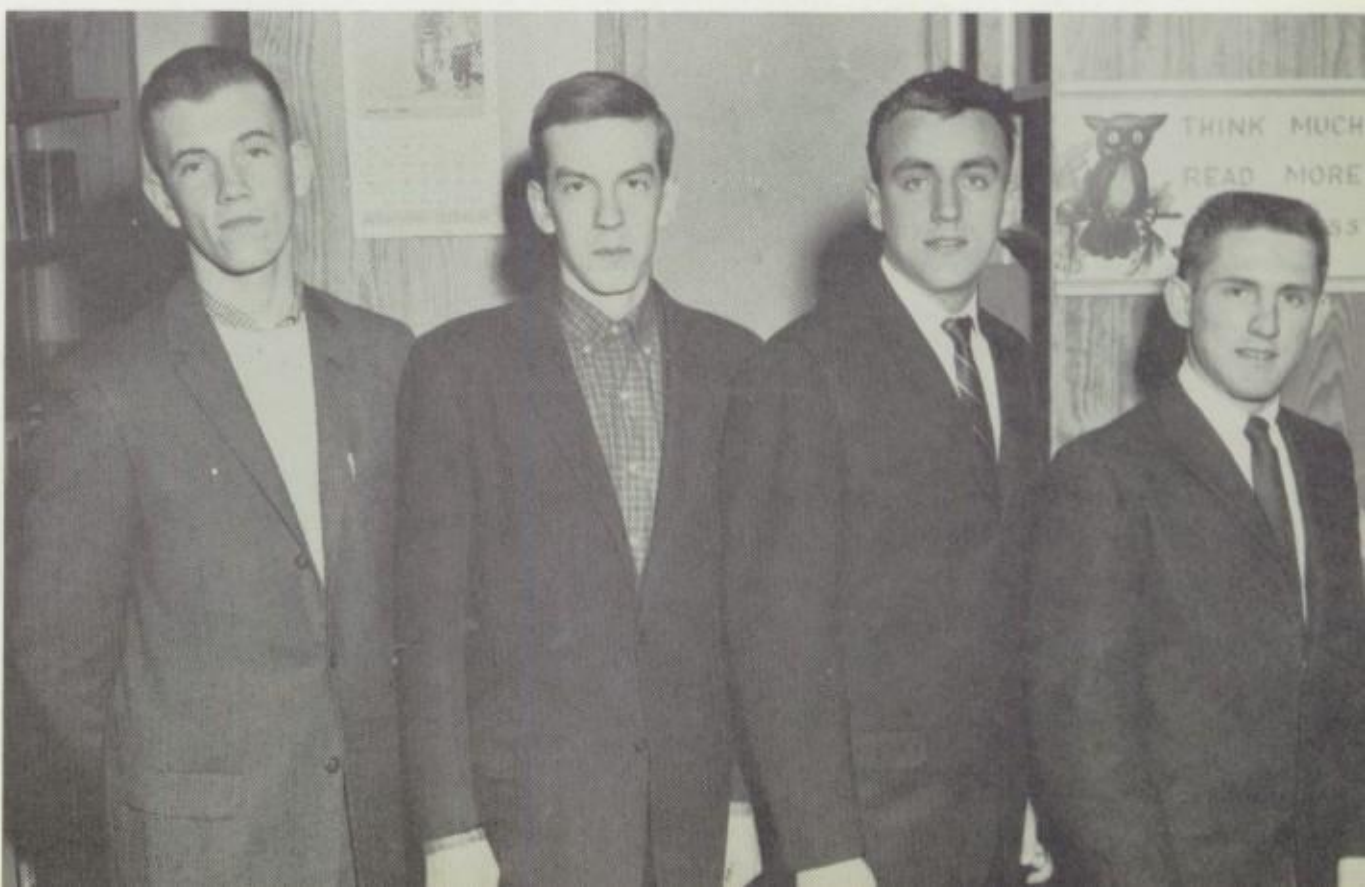

"What did I tell you?" Fr. Fortin asks while G. Walsh chats with glee. Gerry however, couldn't answer the question. Even after school.

"Another book, another dime." It's hard for G. Lavoie and E. Fournier to choose their next book on the spur of the moment. G. Fortin however, has already taken advantage of Fr. Fortin's "Pocket Library."

Two "regulars" of the English 41 class, G. Bourgoin and R. Theriault are absorbed by the material but C. Michaud goes still deeper into English Literature!

Extracurricular English . . . J. Tozier, N. Michaud, L. Doucette, R. Dionne share mixed emotions before the Valley Speech Festival.

Social

"The world is flat." World Historians E. Hoppe and S. Schell probe the globe for the leak which R. Caron has already found.

(Top) Eyewitness to History—Laos and the Congo present their plea for a free society. "These are the trouble spots," explains W. Tardif to his audience, L. Michaud and R. Thibodeau.

(Bottom) "I hope to follow in Jack's footsteps," states earnest R. Tardif; L. Walsh and C. Ouellette appear amused.

"Man is a social being, even at 10:20 in the morning." Mr. Levasseur surveys his sociology class for evidence that his statement has produced an effect.

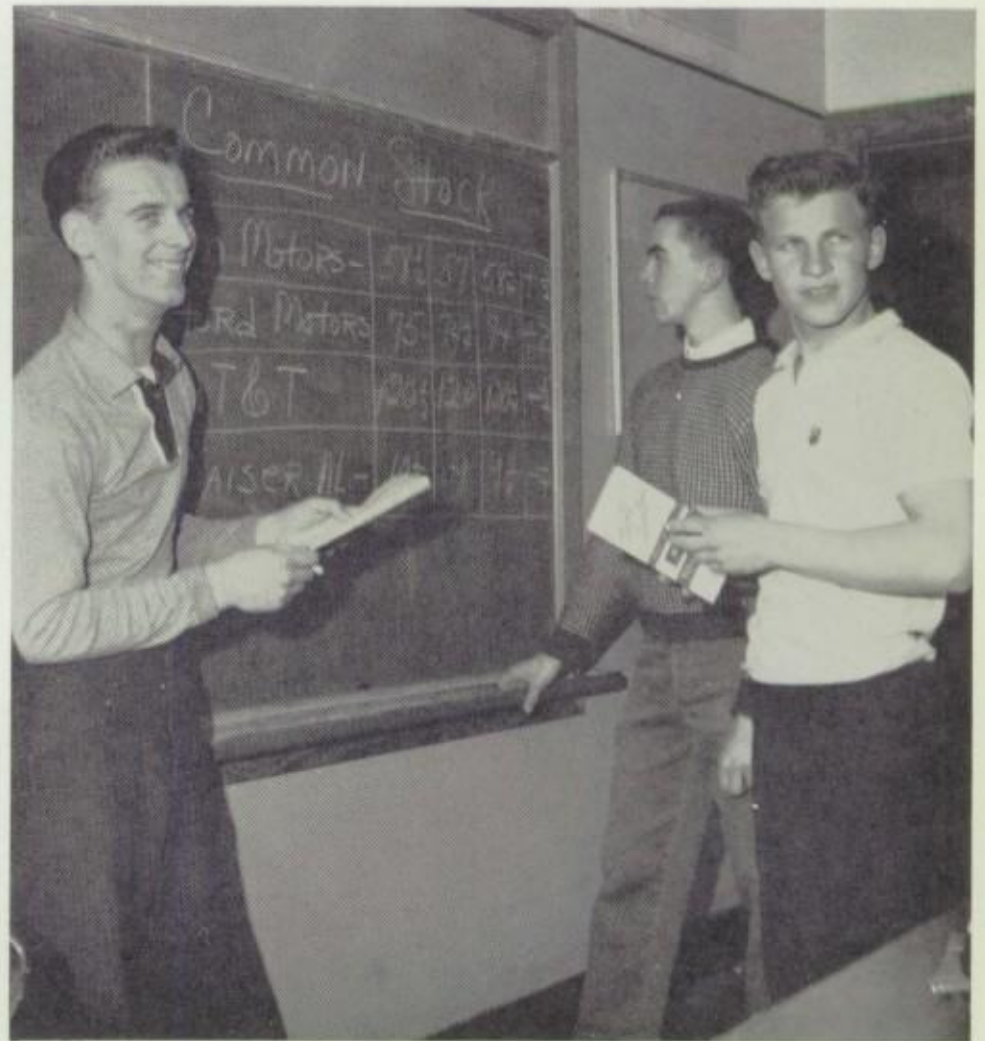

Studies

J. Theriault, J. Cyr, G. Lavoie, and H. Ayotte review the problems of our democracy with enthusiasm?

"I do," say acting chief of police D. Pelletier and Assist. Chief R. Powers as they are sworn in by Town Clerk R. Thibodeau on Jr. Town Gov't Day.

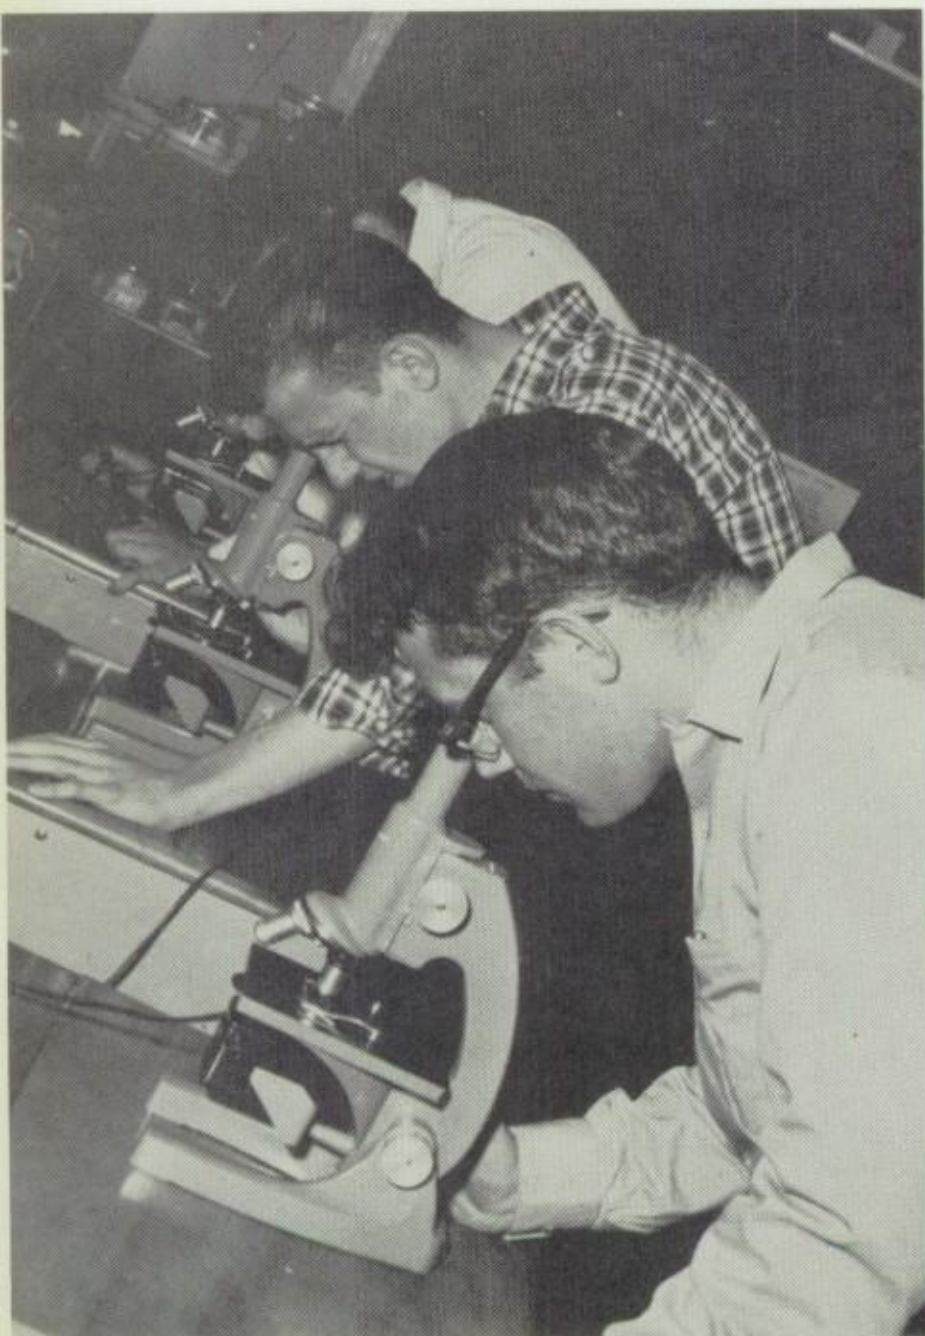

N. Fournier smiles as he sees his stocks have gone up. R. Labbe and E. Fournier consider this more seriously as they review the exchange reports which round off their projects in Problems of Economics.

"Let's go by rocket . . ." B. Clavette, K. Pelletier and R. Deveau discuss the travel ways of the world, a favorite subject in Geography class these days.

Science

"Life, isn't it wonderful?" Two members of the Sophomore Biology course, R. Parent and R. Gatcomb bring the unseen into focus for a close look.

(TOP): "In my opinion, it's sickly"; so states L. Picard to R. Ayotte while C. Cormier takes notes on their General Science field trip with Fr. Lachance.

(BOTTOM) "Hey! This piano isn't tuned right!" While L. Violette produces the harmonics, physicist D. Pelletier grimly searches for the beat with those means at his disposal.

N. Michaud and A. Ayotte check the transmitter circuit for Fr. Laplante while he varies the antenna coil's power. Does G. Fortin know what it's all about?

Health and Physical Education

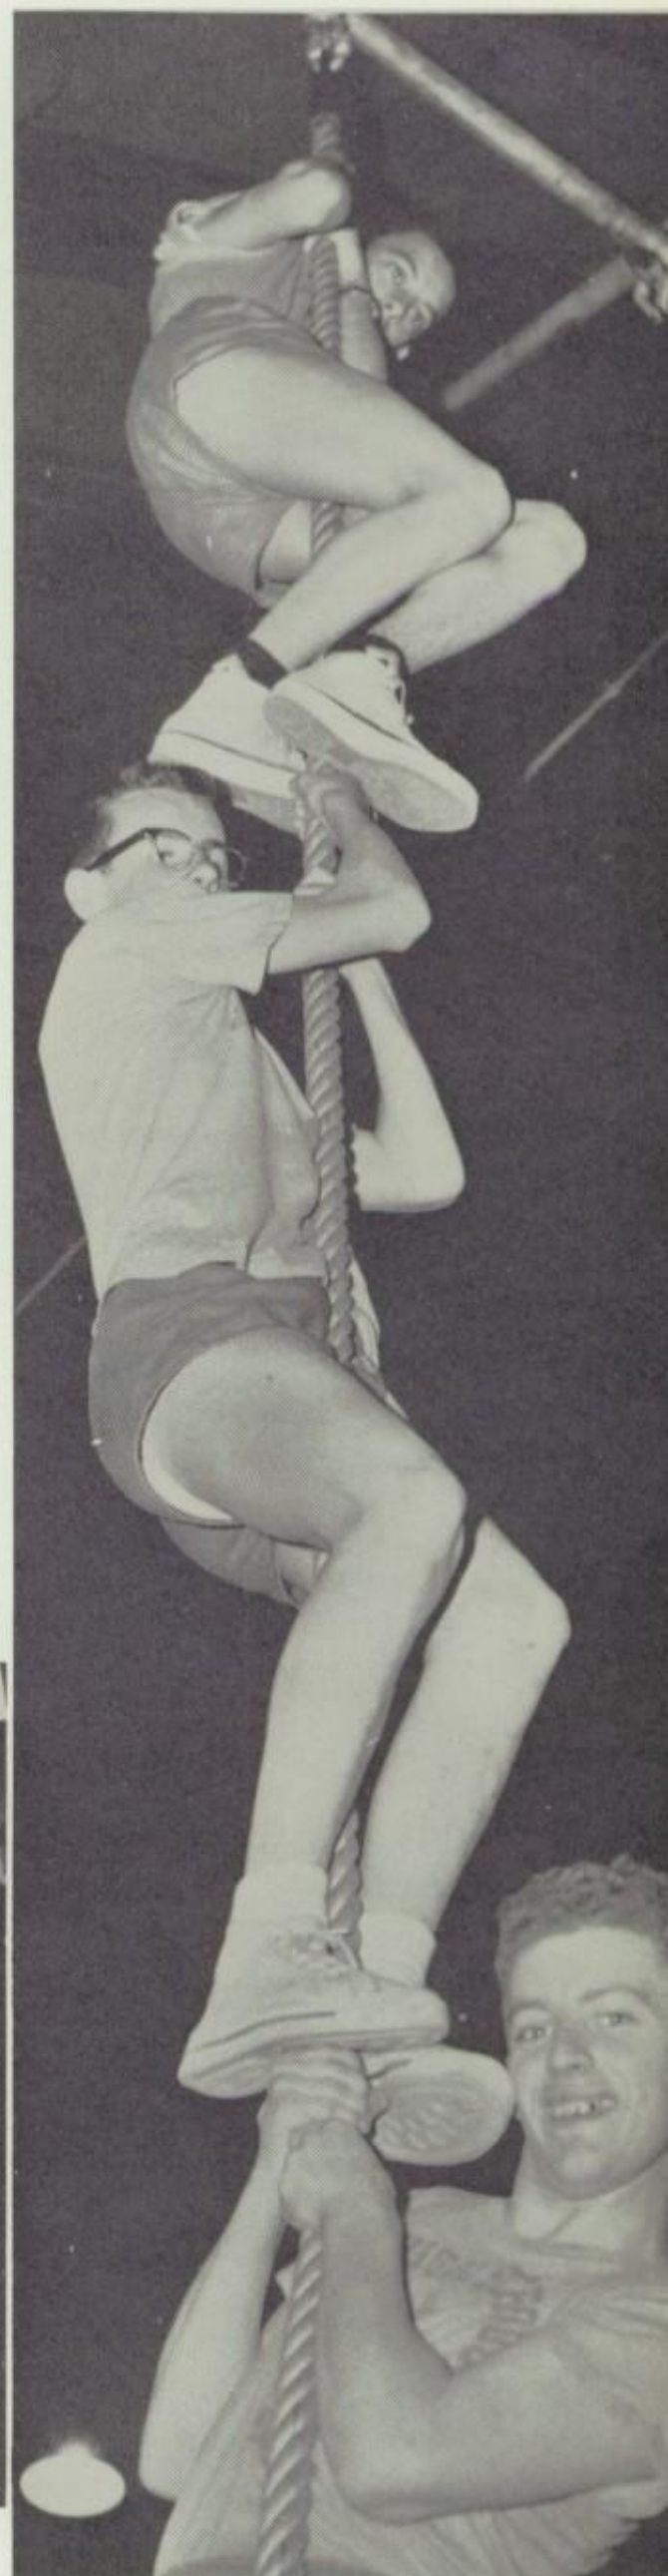

(TOP): Mr. Cormier describes the major organs found in "Freddy" to his Health class while C. Parent finds the "heart" of the matter!

(BOTTOM): Pull up, press down. K. Ouellette (middle) gets unneeded artificial respiration from his Health classmates, R. Caron and R. Ouellette.

"Ref" R. Daigle finds no fault with R. Vaillancourt's and D. Levesque's style but the onlookers N. Sirois, A. Levesque, C. Devost and D. Dube would rather watch the T.V. fights.

(TOP TO BOTTOM): Nelson Gri-vois, Emilien Picard, Leo Lausier.

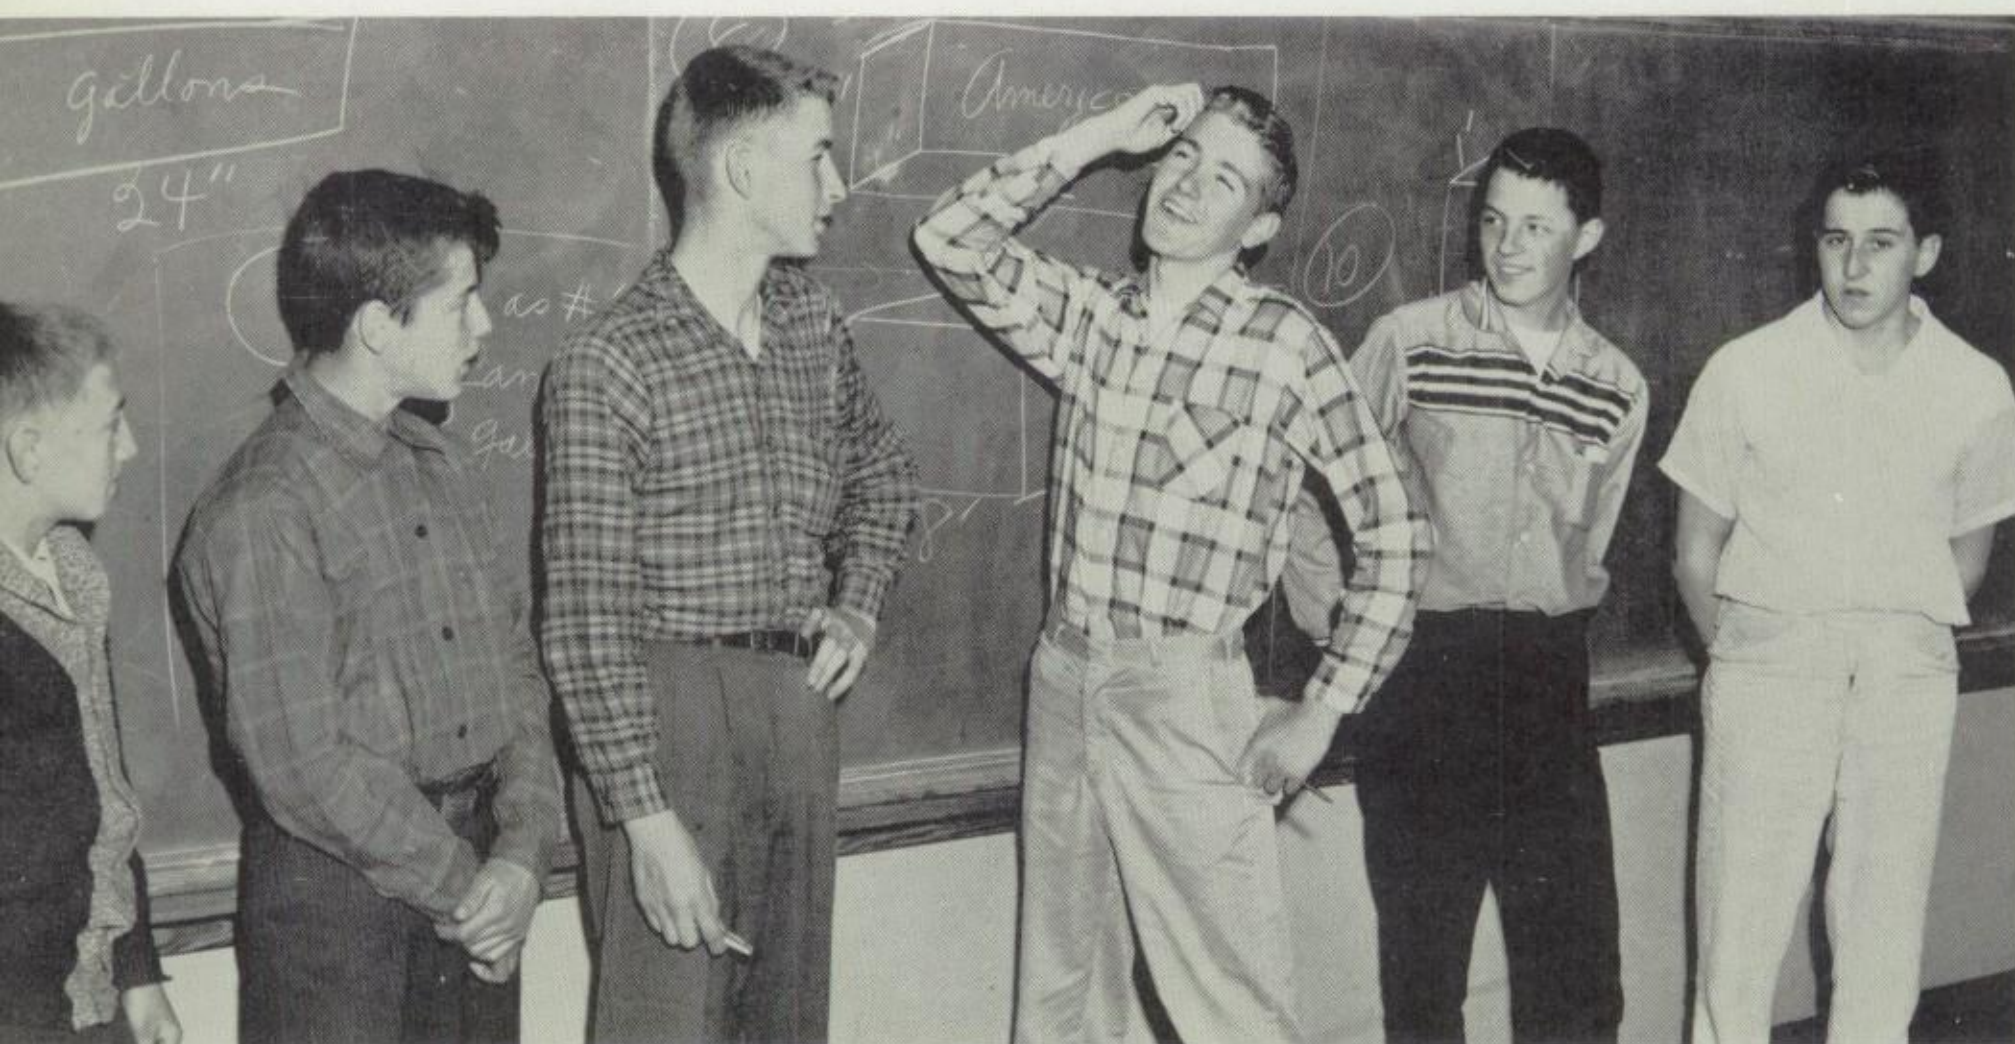

"Keep it up, it's right on the nose!" Clarence Dubay resorts to his Algebra book to keep Peter Ezzy from finishing off the problem for good!

Mathematics

L. Gagnon and R. Martin are well on the way to solving a Business Math. problem; M. Cyr (middle) however, readily rejects their answer.

Friday morning oral Math. drill. C. Beaulieu, M. Beaulieu, M. Lavoie, J. Ayotte, R. Rossignol, and D. Martin. Sharpen up on fundamentals before tackling volumes. J. Ayotte seems to need more drill.

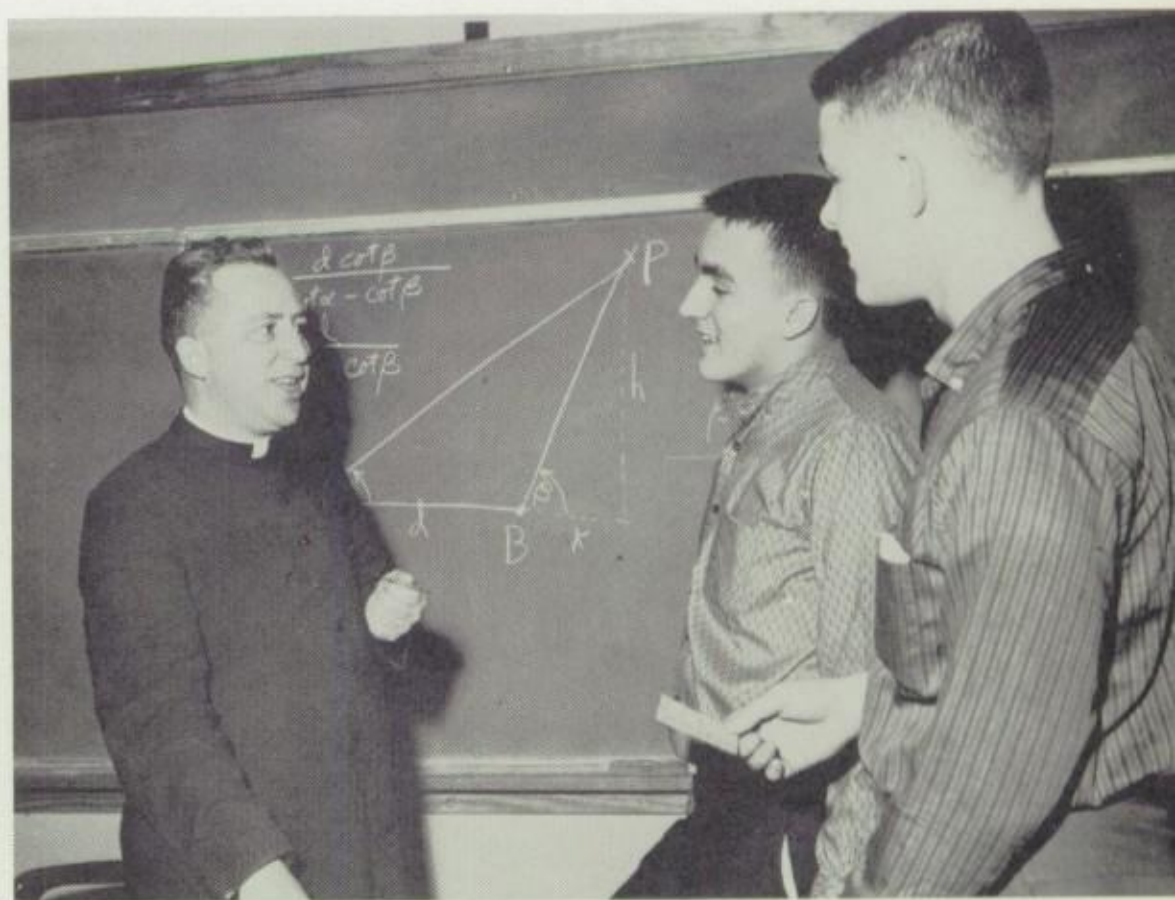

"Will it be a barn or a 'cabane à poule'?" H. Chabre, G. Lajoie, and C. Thibodeau work on scale drawings in Senior Review Math.

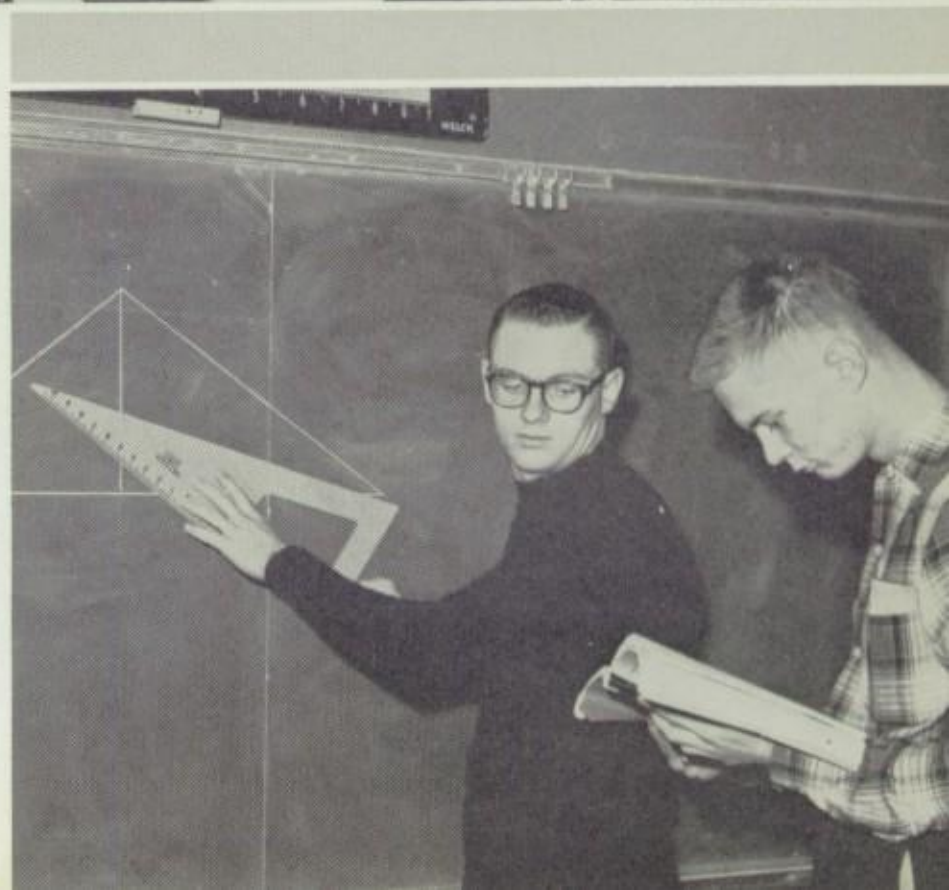

"Why students get gray!" While Fr. LaChance catches up on his Breviary his Algebra 1 pupils, K. Parent and W. Ward and others plow through the perennial test.

"Quick Bud, what's the major identity of the secant?" Fr. McDonald and P. Theriault double-team L. Doucette who's bound to peek on the board soon and see the light.

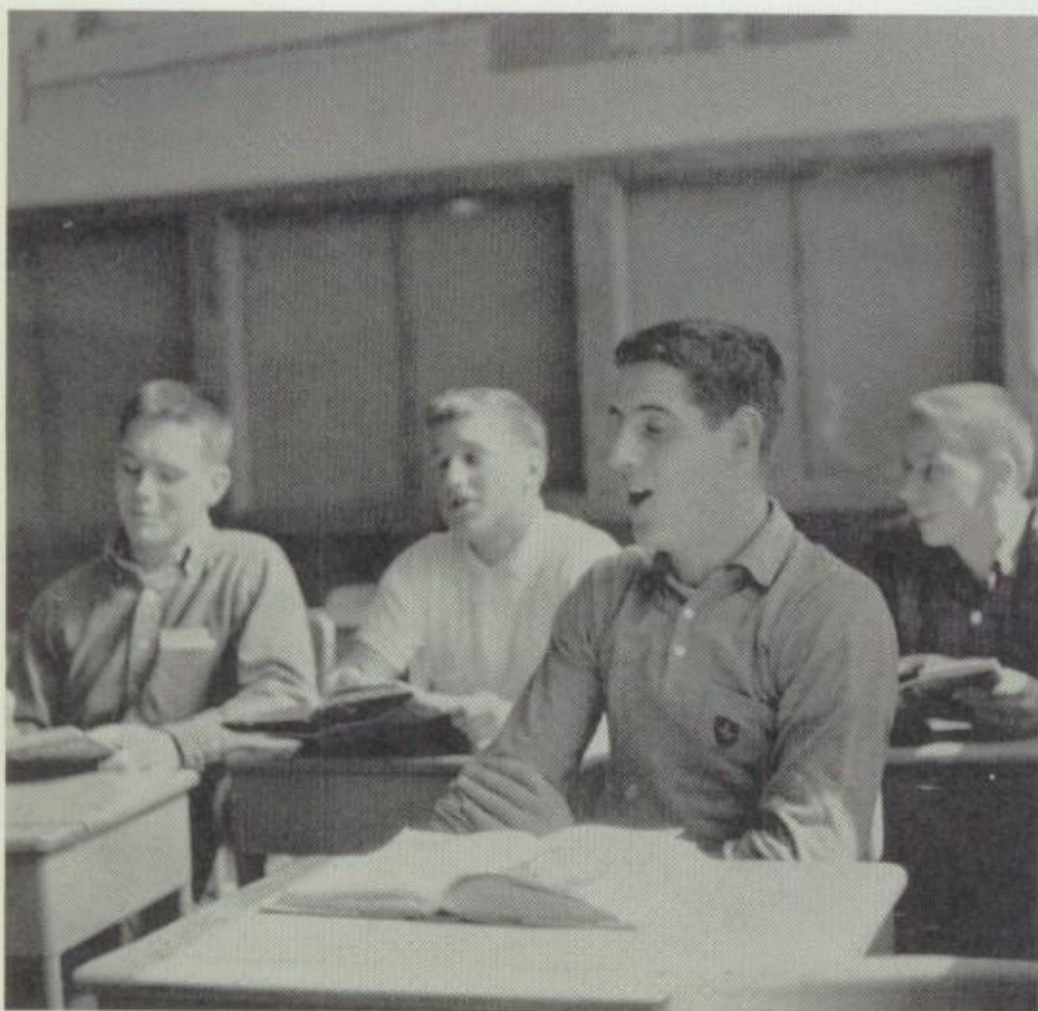

"Should we, or shouldn't we bisect this angle first." Neither are certain, but a fast survey into the Geometry text by E. Hoppe will help M. Poirier prove a theory.

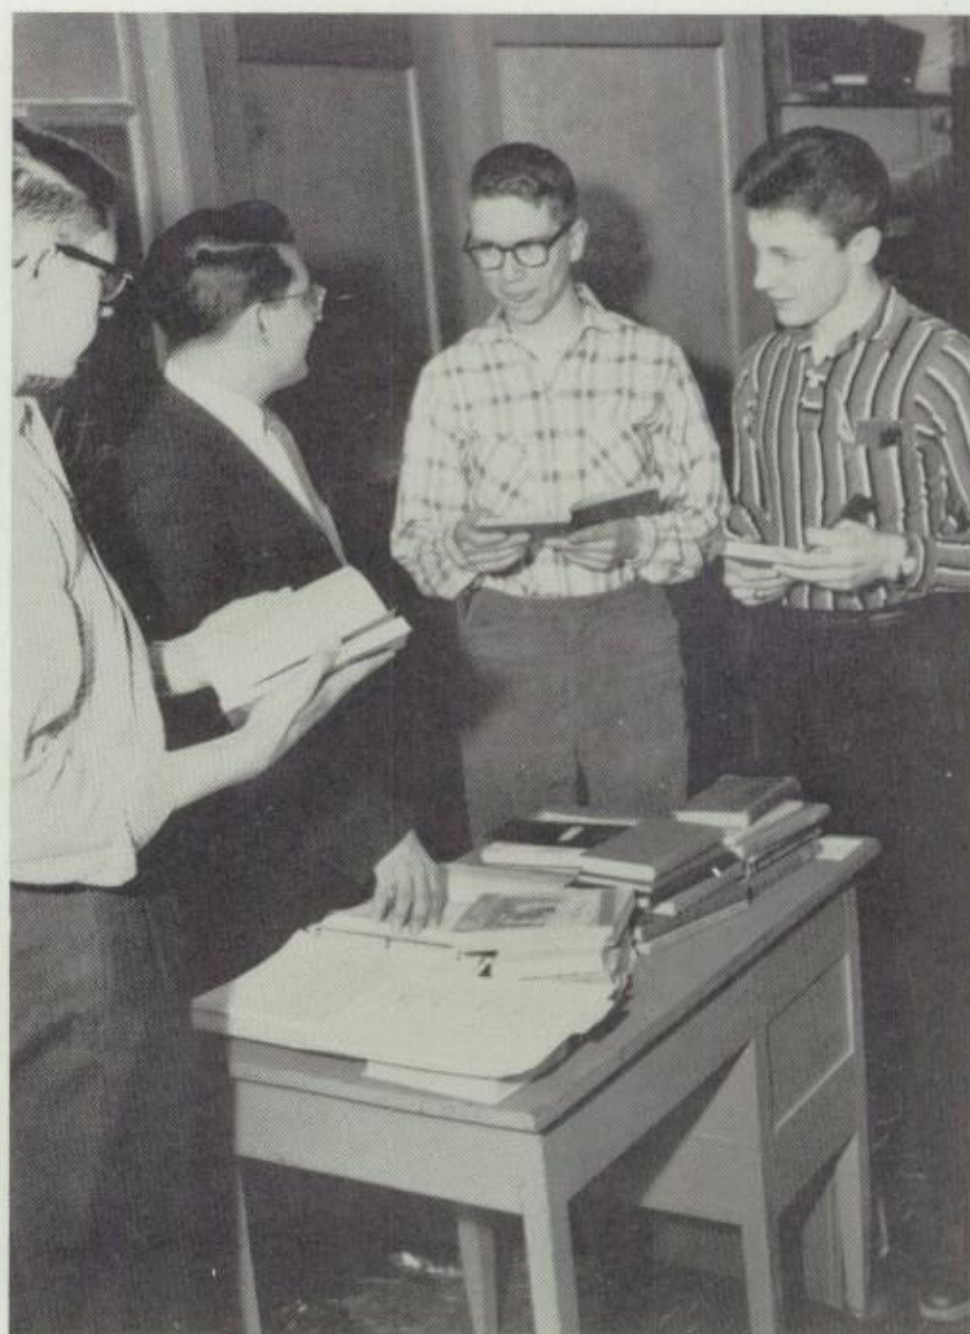

Foreign Languages

Mr. Perreault adds some of the French countryside he himself visited in uniform to his French I class: R. Dumais, E. Hoppe, R. Tardif, R. Thibodeau, R. Parent and S. Schell.

A question of case, or a case of questions. W. Ward, R. Theriault, W. Dionne and S. Violette get into a discussion on Latin endings.

"Ce n'est pas de la vraie littérature française, mais . . ." These three Juniors, R. Gagnon, V. Berube and D. St. Jean get some helpful tips from Prof. Perreault.

"Each plane flies in a "box" of airspace at certain altitudes," reports R. Bouchard to M. Cyr and R. Doucette during a discussion of commercial airlines in Jr. Business.

"Let me see, what do I owe him?" Jim Charette, typical of future business tycoons, ponders this, but the amount will probably be staggering!

Business Studies

"Seek and Ye shall Find." While H. Dubay, R. Doucette, V. Berube, G. Clavette, E. St. Jean, P. St. Amand and R. Gagnon use the "Biblical" system of typing, R. Cyr considers Mr. Quinn's hint.

Industrial Arts

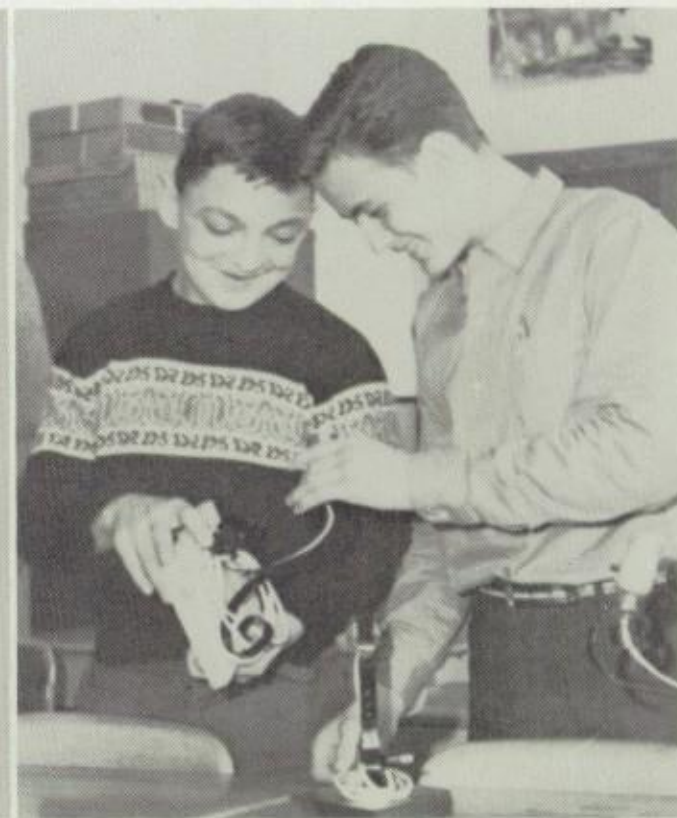

Training, a deft touch and determination. Norman Dionne proves that the discipline imposed at the shop pays off.

"Watch your fingers." M. Morreau stands near the brake as R. Cyr prints an order of late-slips for the office. This letter press, with a lithograph machine, joins the list of improvements in the shop.

Toys for Tots. The Industrial Arts Juniors and Seniors made Christmas toys for less fortunate children. E. Bouchard and Roger Desjardins inspect the finished product.

"Mine is better than yours." N. Levesque and K. Beaulieu compare results of their wall-lamp project.

En Avant! S. Parent gleefully teaches the Pluperfect to G. Theriault and P. Voisine.

F. Thibodeau listens intently as Sister St. Remi explains the principles of English grammar.

A. Blier seems engrossed in one of the newly arrived books, as C. Ouellette, A. Levesque, and R. Lapierre marvel over the quality of these books.

Sacred Heart High Languages

"O la la! Regardez ces livres!" says Sister Marie Emile to her Freshmen; A. M. Desjardins, N. Beaulieu, J. Cyr, A. Tardif, K. Gagnon, D. Levesque, and J. St. Pierre examine and enjoy their new texts.

*Fasten Safety Belts! Father, L. Powers, takes his family E. Priest, G. Ouellette and A. Rossignol on a make-believe ride as they enact Wilder's Happy Journey to Trenton.*

*Their hearts are filled with the Sound Of Music. J. Ouellette, G. Beaulieu and G. Levesque read the Broadway script while A. Levesque attempts to plunk a tune on the guitar.*

"Le cygne est gracieux dans tous ses mouvements," lectures A. Devost to enthusiastic listeners D. Parent and R. Daigle.

Grinning triumphantly at J. Grivois, A. Levesque points to the correct Latin word.

A moment of serious research for R. Violette, J. Mad... and D. Ouellette.

Using the morality play, Everyman, as a backdrop, and seniors J. Lebel, R. Ouellette, M. Plourde as characters, Sister Marie-Anunciata points the way to a dramatic climax.

Five pensive maidens, C. Masse, J. Grivois, L. Cyr, C. Cyr and J. Fournier find English relaxing as they enjoy selections from The King and I.

"Dunstan's skeleton moves!" cries A. Fournier to amused classmates S. Cyr, A. Daigle, C. Lebel, A. Deschaine.

Social Studies

The Battle of The Fittest! N. Laplante, the Lone Republican, and A. Paradis, the Proud Democrat, almost come to final terms over the November Elections.

"I Know Where the Alps Are!" announces N. Desjardins to M. Lebel, R. M. Cyr, J. Gagnon and G. Dubay still aren't convinced, but they'll go along.

J. Ayotte, I. Gagnon, A. Duplessis and L. Daigle display their knowledge of Canada through posters, but statistics are a good idea, as J. Cyr points out.

"Who Knows the Third Law?" queries Mr. Parent. C. Ouellette awaits a response from M. R. Fortin and a dubious B. J. Theriault.

Posters! Work! Posters!—The effort of weeks of intensive work by four eager artists, J. St. Amand, E. Desjardins, I. Bouchard, and A. Tardif, comes to light.

Four staunch U. N. supporters, M. Ouellette, C. Bellefleur, J. Cyr, and D. Parent expound their topic during a government class.

D. Durette does reference work while P. St. Jean, D. Ouellette and J. Gagnon confirm their view points for a coming History discussion.

Flunk Now and Avoid the June Rush—J. Cyr with a nonchalant attitude, pities M. J. Cyr, C. Beaulieu and L. Levesque as they cram for American History exams.

"Let's start with one hundred!" suggest our future stenographers R. Martin, C. Beaulieu, I. Violette, S. Perreault, and F. Madore to Sister St. Irene.

Commercial Subjects

Impossible! E. Levesque, T. Bernard, V. Lebel, J. Bouchard and P. Cyr working happily during a filing session in General Business.

"Now for the masterpiece!" exclaims D. Corbin to B. Cyr as J. Deloge types on.

B. Powers seems to think that checking bookkeeping can be very discouraging times, but P. Theriault and M. Picard struggle through the task.

C. Ouellette puts up an attractive bulletin board while C. Theriault points at her future career.

"Operating the hectograph is fun and very easy," replies I. Lajoie as L. Lapierre, I. Grivois and G. Levesque look on attentively.

Miss Cyr seems as interested as D. Lebel, B. Smith, K. Levesque and J. Martin, as she listens to the girls' explanation on promissory notes.

"Let's really get them clean!" says Sister St. Fremont to O. Beaulieu, M. Martin and V. Berube while C. Thibodeau tries to make up her mind as to which brush will give the best results.

As she compares the length of some foreign rivers, M. St. Pierre shows R. M. Marquis, D. Deschaine, J. Dubay, R. Berube, G. Lapointe, A. Desjardins, B. Ouellette, V. Levesque and A. St. Pierre how to interpret graphs.

Science and Math

"What type of shell is this?" P. Cyr consults the shell expert K. Lavoie.

"Record 31.5 milliliters of NaOH," observes L. Ouellette to R. M. Paradis. As C. Bouchard and J. Cyr look on, Sister M. Bernadine tries to explain the structure of a molecule to M. St. Pierre. M. Plourde apparently does not agree with the chemistry text.

"It's Greek to me," seems to say J. Ayotte and P. Sirois as J. Marquis, J. Madore and E. Violette present a math problem.

M. Laplante, E. Levasseur, C. Ouellette and R. Paradis identify the leaves they gathered on a recent field trip.

Sacred Heart High's future fire fighters! D. Cyr, Y. Beaulieu, M. Cormier experiment with the soda-acid extinguisher.

"That's as far as I can go," says A. M. Thier as D. Thibodeau urges her on.

"Look, girls! No skin!" quips J. Soucy, to her amused friends, L. Lavoie, E. Cyr, M. J. Roy, and N. Cyr.

Home Economics

"What qualities should we look for in a husband?" ask seniors L. Violette, L. Ouellette, and P. Marquis as they interview Mrs. P. Bouchard for a marriage research.

"A perfect fit!" exclaim A. Fournier and B. Michaud as they adjust a collar on A. Marquis.

C. Robichaud, C. Tardif and D. Rossignol find difficulty in arranging their pattern properly, but E. Learnard gets direct help from Mrs. Waltz.

Taking stock of Home Ec. equipment proves to be an exciting treasure hunt for L. Ouellette, G. Bouchard, M. Castonguay and P. Marquis while Sister St. Anne smiles her satisfaction.

"Begin!" directs Sister St. Helen-Marie as Freshmen P. Lebel, J. Masse, C. St. Pierre, C. Marquis, R. Ouellette, and G. Roy rattle their brains on an I.Q. test.

The coveted trophy every Home Ec. student aims at is being examined by A. M. Fournier and A. Blier while asking each other, "Who will be the lucky girl next year?"

Guidance Gives to Our Lives What the Warp Yarn Gives to Fabric—DIRECTION

With a smile, Sister St. Helen-Marie answers C. Laplante's knock for guidance.

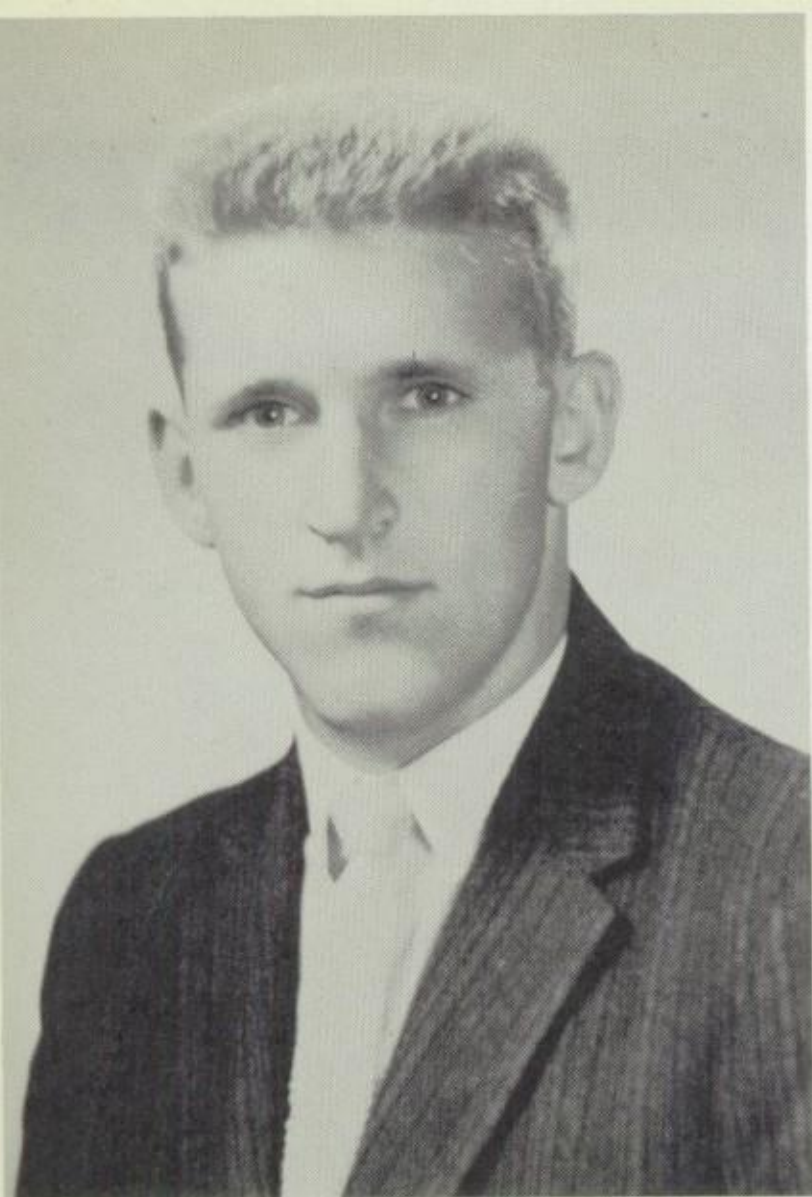

The student body meets with the Principal for guidance every other week. FIRST ROW: R. Ouellette, A. M. Michaud, C. Ouellette, A. Dubay, M. Gagnon, C. Cyr, and G. Roy. SECOND ROW: G. Picard, S. Violette, J. Cormier, I. Thibodeau, R. Berube and J. Dubay.

The Graduating Class

A solitary thread, strong as it may be, means little unless it lends itself to the weaver's loom which will intertwine the varied textures and colors of its raw materials into a rich, long-lasting fabric.

The years of training have gone by. The thread of our lives is now a blend of: faith, courage, discipline and work. The task of interweaving this thread with those of individuals in society lies ahead. We alone can do it; we alone are responsible for the outcome, the final pattern of our lives.

Adding the Golden Threads

"Wonderland By Night" The Frances D. Combo gives a beautiful rendition of the Senior Prom theme as the students dance to their heart's content.

Willis Ward, a waiter at the Senior Prom, willingly comes to the aid of Lorraine Lavoie. Her companions seem unaware of her plight.

"Who is chaperoning who? That . . . is the question." Faculty members at the prom were Mr. and Mrs. Roland Perrault, Miss L. Berube and Gerald Levasseur.

P. Ezzy and J. Labbe are greeted by the Major-Domo, H. Beaulieu, as they arrive at the Gala Affair.

"Un, deux, trois . . . cha-cha-cha." Getting into the swing of things is fun according to T. Keegan and P. Cyr as they dance the night away.

"Oh, here comes Father with his camera," moans R. Labbe to his partner C. Ouellette who doesn't seem to mind.

"Climb Every Mountain" sung by the Good Shepherd Sisters added the finishing touch and brought to an end the 1961 Girls' High Class Night.

Mr. Elmer Violette, President of the Rotary Club, presented G. Bourgoin with a scholarship typical of the many scholarships received by the boys and girls from various organizations.

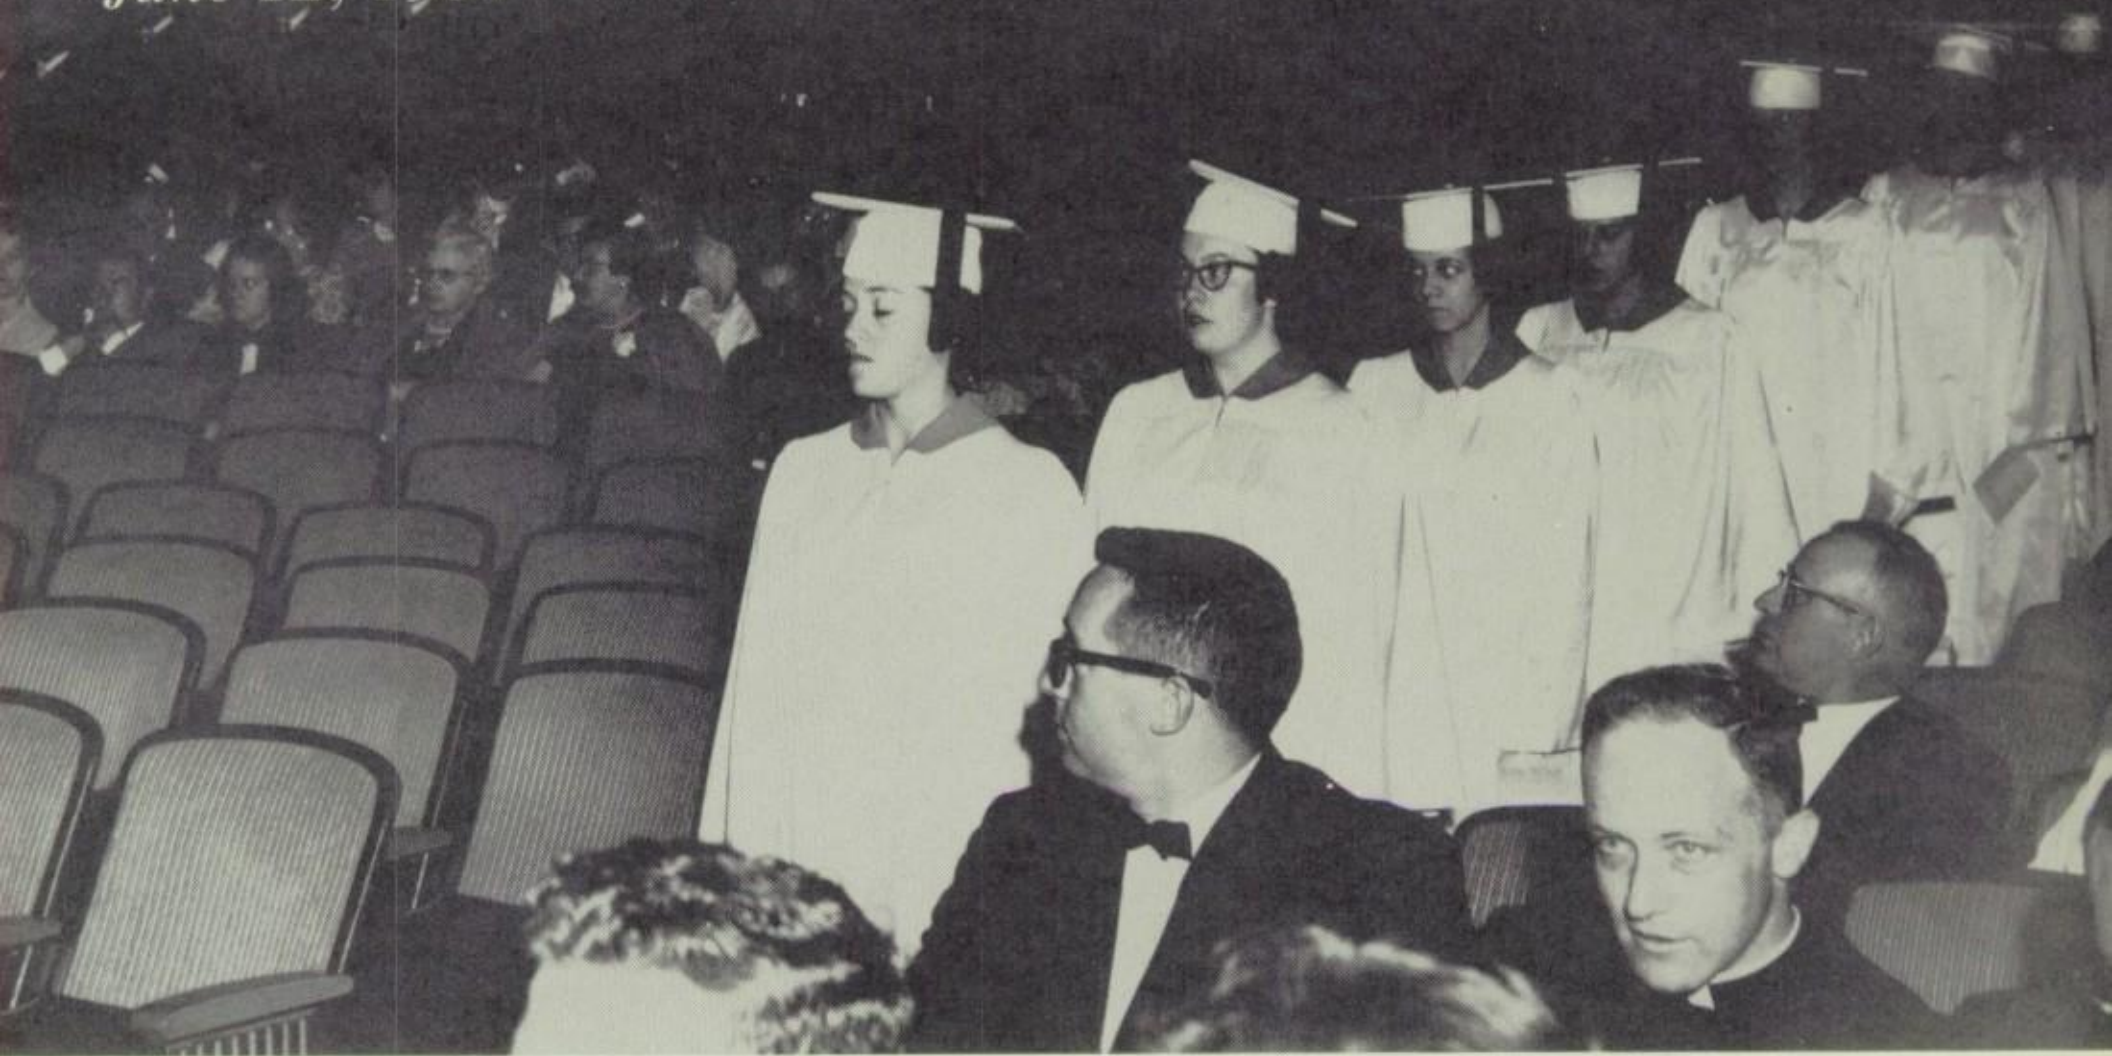

"Madam, you may now read the class will," solemnly declares V. Morin as she hands W. Humphrey the treasured will of 1961.

Mixed emotions can be seen on the faces of these girls as they silently listen to the Sisters' rendition of "Climb Every Mountain."

June 12, 1961

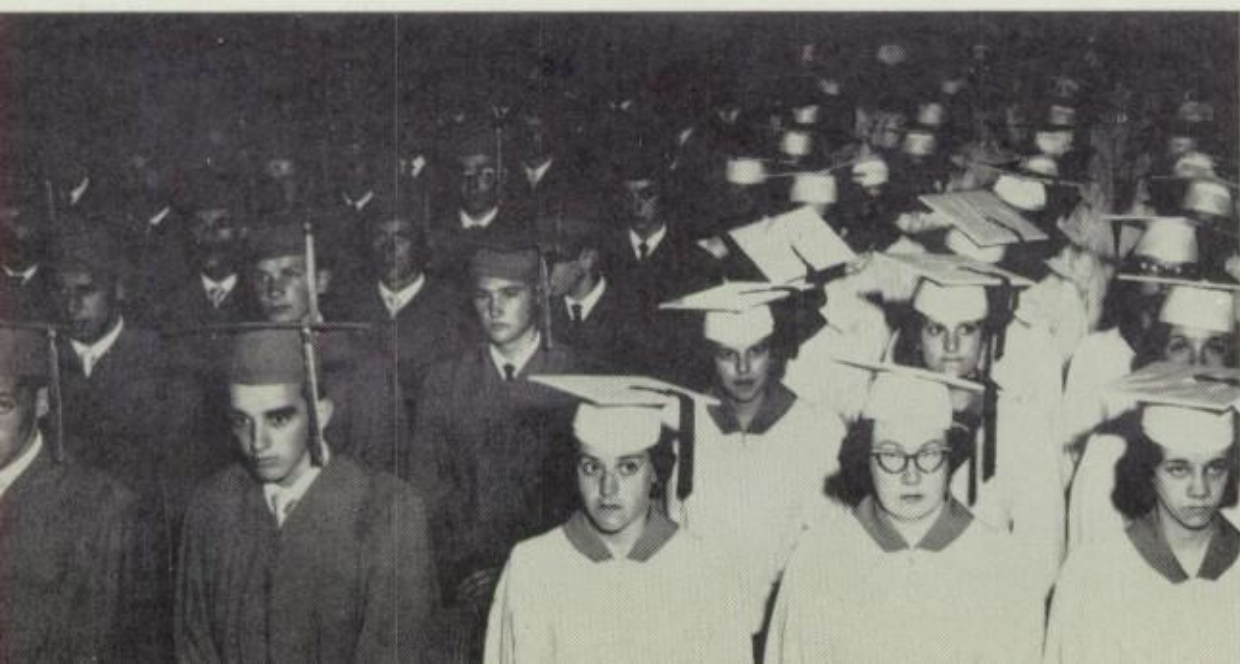

"The great moment has arrived" . . . Eighty-five seniors proudly and eagerly march down the aisle for the last time.

Full of jitters and butterflies, these seniors anxiously await the signal to line up.

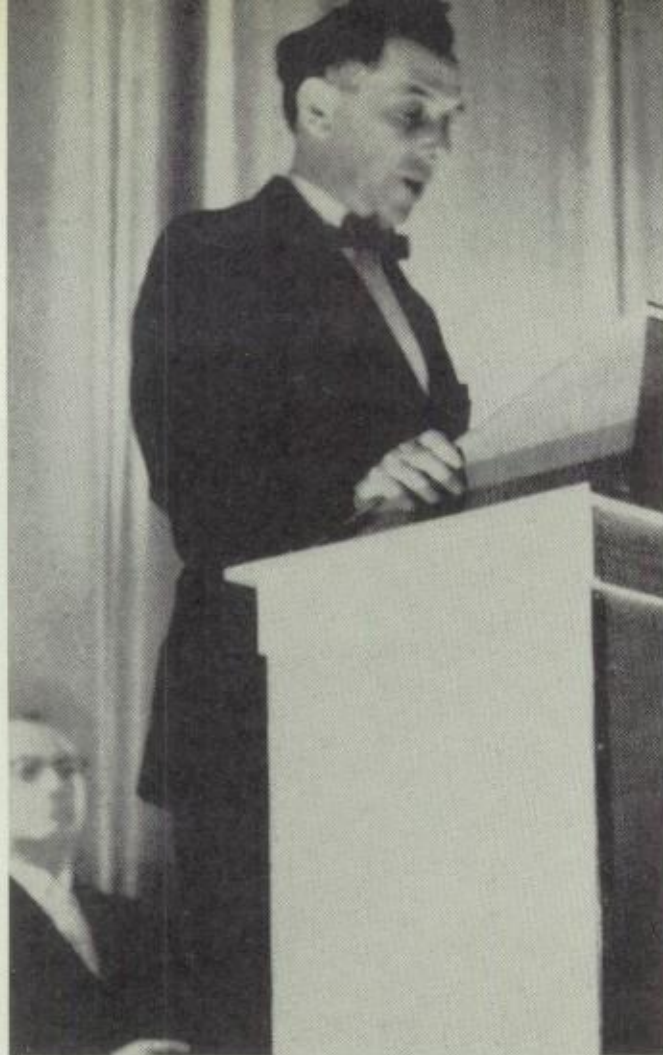

This lull provides a chance for a last minute tête-à-tête.

"Courage is needed in this age of rockets and space." Phil Theriault, valedictorian of Boys' High, leaves the audience with a glimpse of the future as he concludes his speech.

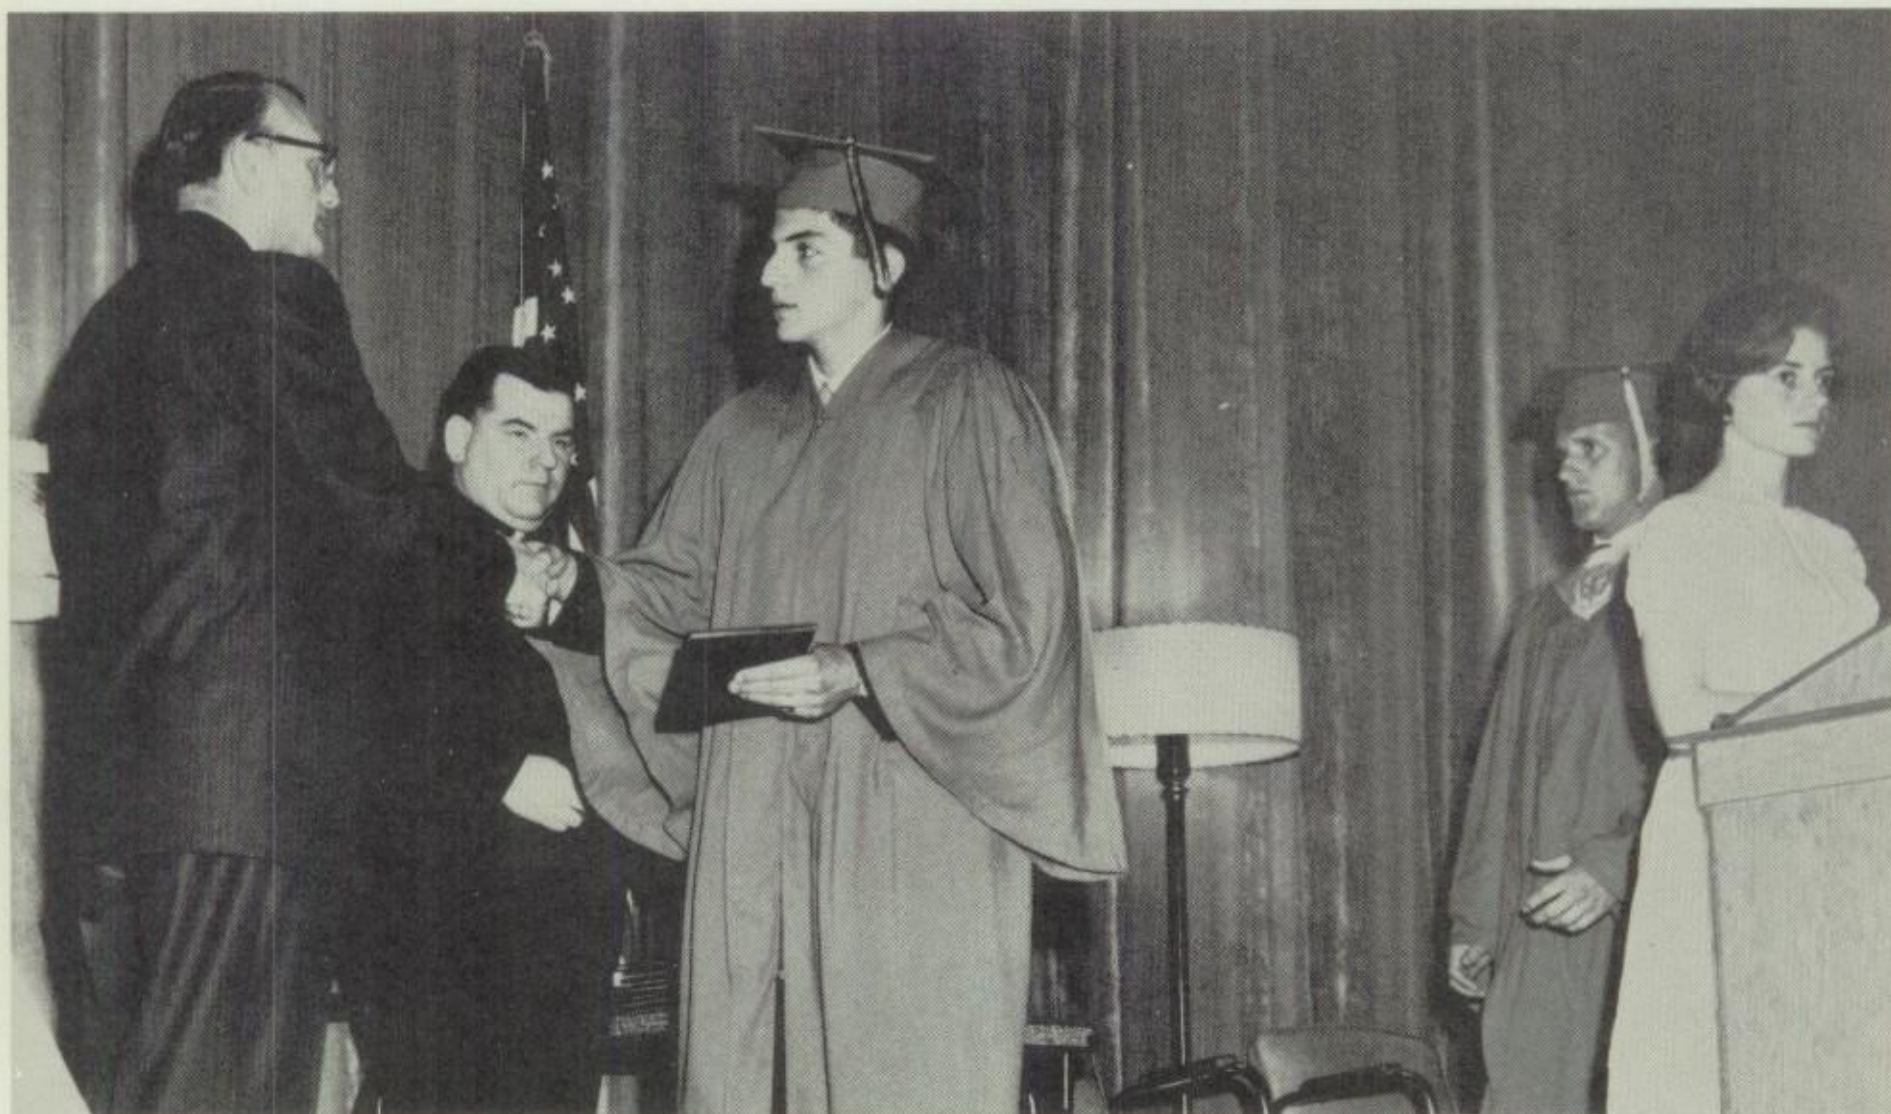

"Without faith, man is lost and confused." Frances Madore, valedictorian of Sacred Heart High, emphasizes this idea in her fare-well speech.

"You are what you want to be." Mr. J. Fox, principal of Ft. Kent State Normal School, addresses the graduates and gives them helpful advice for the future.

Three Good Shepherd Sisters offer congratulations and a little sound advice to an honor graduate.

"At last, we have reached our goal." After twelve years of study P. Ezzy receives his diploma from Gerard Tardif, superintendent. Rev. Robert Lebreque, principal of Boys' High, willingly contributes his time to assisting Mr. Tardif.
